Farm-City Banquet Provides People Sense Of Community

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — At least 650 people attended the Lebanon Chamber of Commerce Farm-City Banquet Tuesday at the Lebanon Expo Fairgrounds in North Cornwall Township.

The event is billed as the largest such event in the state, and for years has been popular in attracting support from many community farmers, agribusinesses, area businesses, families, legislators and state commodity and promotional groups.

Henry Homan, semi-retired Lebanon County radio news reporter, newspaper columnist, and personality, served as master of ceremonies.

State Dairy Princess Jennifer Dotterer, Somerset County Lamb and Wool Queen Casey Svonavec (standing in for her cousin, state Lamb and Wool Queen Heidi Svonavec), Penn State Extension staff, and representatives of the Beef Council were present and mingled with people, and had booths where snacks and promotional offerings were made during the social hour leading up to the actual banquet.

The banquet itself — a buffet featuring large grilled ham steaks, cooked dried corn, sweet potatoes, green beans, etc. — was prepared by Country Fare Restaurant, a family style restaurant located in Myerstown with strong agricultural ties.

Regular and flavored milk drinks were provided by long-time county program supporter Wengert's Dairy.

For those unfamiliar with the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds, several years ago the Expo Association invested in expanding the facilities to accomodate a variety of conventions, while maintaining a strong identity to agriculture.

One of the landmarks of the entire grounds is a large high-ceilinged, convention and agricultural hall, designed to resemble a large bank barn.

It can and does easily accommodate large crowds, livestock shows

Farmers Union Conducts Beef Marketing Study

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co.
Correspondent

MASONTOWN, (Fayette Co.) — The Pennsylvania Family Farm Beef Study Steering Committee recently introduced its marketing test and feasibility study. The objective of the effort, according to Robert C. Junk, president of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, is to increase farm income.

According to Don Fretts, a production farmer and Fayette County extension agent, this effort could fulfill one of his dreams. He noted that the producer gets about $.24 out of each $1 the consumer spends on food. Increasing the contacts for a longer portion of the path to the consumer will help increase the return to the farmer. Currently the production farmer gains income from breeding up to slaughter then turns the product over to others. This study suggests involvement with the product right up to consumption.

The group, known as the Pennsylvania Family Farm Beef Cooperative, has come together over the last year, sparked by a $64,000 grant from the USDA and some matching funds from the Pennsylvania Farmers Union and the Family Farm Foundation. The total investment in the study will go over $100,000, including funds and staff support from the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture.

At this point, the organization is headed by a team of three co-chairmen, a secretary and includes a steering committe of 60 or so production farmers. The officers, selected at one of the many meetings in the area, have been functioning since August 12. The group includes Secretary Louise D'Isidoro, Fayette County, and co-

Finding the 'American Dream'

MARSHA ANN CHESS
Mercer Co. Correspondent

GREENVILLE (Mercer Co.) – When 21-year-old Laszlo Mozes arrived in the United States in 1957, he was alone in a strange land. He did not know anyone and he did not speak the language, but he went to work finding a job and learning English. Today he owns and operates a 300-acre dairy farm near Greenville.

Laszlo left his native Hungary in 1957 following the Hungarian Revolution, in which he took part, for political reasons. Laszlo said, "I had to leave." He chose to come to the United States because, he said, "I always thought I would like to come to the U.S. because there were more opportunities than in any other country. I'd heard a lot about America."

When Laszlo arrived in the U.S., he had no real destination in mind. "I had no place to go," he said. "I was single. I decided to stay in Greenville because somebody offered me a job."

Laszlo claims "it was easy to adjust to living in America, easier to adjust to than the wars in Hungary." He admits there were some difficulties. "To start, it was kind of hard. Imagine yourself (going) somewhere you don't know the language or know anybody." He comments that it took some determination to successfully adjust and learn the English language, which he did by going to high school.

Laszlo married Lana and they purchased the farm. Since

Special Pages/Advertising/News Deadlines For Holidays, Farm Show Issues

A number of special pages are planned for Lancaster Farming in the coming weeks. In addition, the Christmas and New Year holidays bring special deadline schedules, too.

Next week we plan to have the semi-annual newsletter for Pennsylvania DHIA. Here the association will present their review of the year and bring news of special interest to their members as well as to all dairy farmers. In the Dec. 26 issue we dedicate a few pages to the introduction of the Pennsylvania Young Farmer convention to be hosted by the Manheim Chapter in early February. We will have registration forms and an extensive review of the program.

NEW HOLLAND FEEDER PIG AUCTION FOR WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 9, 1998

FEEDER PIGS WEDNESDAY 1650 LAST WEEK 1904 LAST YEAR 886

TREND: Compared to last week; feeder pigs were not well tested, despite the large offering on hand. Around 77 percent of supply was sold for slaughter, and prices on all pigs were steady to weak. Feeder pig demand was very light and prices on the total supply were volatile, even on similar weights. All pigs weighed and graded on arrival and sold by the hundred weight.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.
DECEMBER 09, 1998

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light and unaggressive. Offerings varied in range of adequate to ample and were more readily available on the 3 pound and heavier sizes. Live supplies were moderate; weights were generally heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than truckiot asking prices were 1 cent lower at 57 to 71 cents. Trade sentiment remained steady to weak. In the parts complex, volumes and items available varied by plant, but remained fully sufficient for the currently lackluster demand.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE

Prices were unchanged on the West Coast, and medium prices were unchanged to lower elsewhere. The market tone was mostly steady for the larger sizes, and steady to weak for mediums. Demand ranged light to good, mostly moderate, and was best where featured. Supplies were adequate to fully adequate with the exception of the West Coast where offerings were reported light, and mediums were in the longest position. Breaking stock supplies were adequate for the light demand, and prices trended lower. Light type hens were sufficient for full slaughter schedules.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wed Dec 09, 1998
USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids dropped lower again due to continued pressure from outside wheat sales to Pakistan and now reports that the Russian aid package may be annulled. Corn and soybean bids declined as forecasts continue to call for rainfall in Argentina and Southern Brazil. South Korea bought a large amount of US corn overnight which limited losses in corn but other export sales have been slow this week. Wheat 7 to 10 cents lower. Corn steady to 2 cents lower. Sorghum 2 cents lower. Soybeans 4 to 11 cents lower.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

How to Say "Merry Christmas!"

In French, it's Joyeux Noel; in Spanish, Feliz Navidad. The Swedes say Glad Yul, but Italians prefer Buone Feste Natalizie. However you say it, we hope it's a merry one and as memorable (but free of fires or shipwrecks!) as some of these notable Christmas Days: On Christmas Day in 1492, Columbus's Santa Maria was shipwrecked. December 25, 1642, saw the birth of Isaac Newton. On Christmas, 1776, George Washington crossed the Delaware River. In 1777, Captain Cook discovered Christmas Island. December 25, 1821, marked the birth of Clara Barton. And on Christmas, 1849, the great San Francisco fire occurred.

A green Christmas, a white Easter.

Tip of the Week

Uncooked Winter Relish

1-1/2 cups diced celery
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
2 teaspoons salt
1-1/2 cups chopped, cooked beets
1/3 cup horseradish
1/2 cup brown sugar
cold cider vinegar, to moisten

Combine the ingredients in the order given. Place into a jar, cover closely, and let stand for at least 24 hours (From The Old Farmer's Almanac, 1949)

Makes 6 servings.

The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

December cold with snow, good for rye.

There is never a Saturday without some sunshine.

If it rains on Sunday before mass, it will rain the whole week.

The Building you want.
The Lease you need.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow.

First: Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost.
Then: Call your Telmark representative for your financing.

Apply compost and organic mulch to any row crop automatically

The versatile Millcreek Row Mulcher makes different sized mulch beds as you need, from 18" to 48" wide, from 1/2" to 10" deep. A mulching program can help you produce a healthier crop while reducing pesticide requirements.

From tree fruit to vegetable beds, from bramble crops to vineyards, organic mulch and compost can reduce chemical input for weed suppression, retain soil moisture, and improve soil fertility by adding organic matter to sandy and clay soils.

Now Millcreek eliminates the costly labor needed for organic mulch and compost application. The remarkable new Millcreek Row Mulcher works with all types of organic material, and even lets you adjust the depth and width of the mulch rows.

Starting under $5000, no other machine compares when it comes to capabilities, versatility, and cost effectiveness Rugged construction. Five sizes, from 3 4 to 13 cubic yard capacity Custom designs Call today for a free color brochure, or to discuss your specific needs

OPINION

Identification For Animals Only

The Livestock Conservation Institute has embarked on a plan to bring animal identification to the national front. At a symposium last month in St. Louis, officials worked in groups to plan for the cattle, swine, sheep, equine, and llama industries to begin work an national animal identification.

Richard Keene, president of the Holstein Association, USA, said that in order to address the issues of export market, genetic evaluation, health and food safety, value based marketing and inbreeding in stud genetics from a dairy standpoint, we need to have a strong ID system in place.

In the beef industry the focus is on measuring cattle yield, tenderness, grade, and performance in general.

Swine breeders want to focus on disease control, food chain feedback, as well as the normal genetic evaluations in the industry.

While other species may have additional reasons to keep close records on animal identification, all agree the need is present and believe the methodology is already available to make it happen.

Many officials believe the system should follow the "American ID" numbering system established by the Council on Dairy Cattle Breeding. There is also a need for a private entity to allocate numbers in blocks to maintain unique records across organizations. Numbers must be attached to the animal with official identification tags or radio frequency identification transporders may be used.

We believe the merits of a national animal identification program are undeniable. The technology is awesome but available. We can only hope the program is not setting the stage for people identification using the same technology. To implant identification chips under the skin to be read by an all-knowing computer in the sky is acceptable for the reasons given by leaders of the animal associations. But it is not acceptable should governments want to control human movement.

To Attend ACE Conference

The Ag Computing and Electronics (ACE) Expo will be held Wednesday, December 16 at the Lancaster Host Resort located on Route 30 east of Lancaster. Registrations will be taken at the door. Registration and trade show begins at 8:30 A.M. The Expo features computers, hardware, software and electronics that relate to agriculture.

The program is loaded with expert speakers, farmer panelists, seminars, hands on workshops and trade show exhibits. Topics to be discussed include farm finances, labor, pesticide and nutrient management records, using the internet, developing a home page and horticultural applications.

If a computer is on your shopping list or you want to learn more about use of computers in your operation, then plan on attending the ACE Expo.

To Winterize Pesticide Storage Areas

The proper storage of pesticides during winter is often overlooked, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent. Winter storage requires special considerations. While almost all pesticides will maintain their effectiveness for more than one year, they need to be properly stored.

Low temperatures, excessive heat and damp conditions while in storage may affect the quality of the pesticide. Storage areas should be a separate room, building or shed devoted exclusively to the storage of pesticides.

The area should be heated, dry and well ventilated. Direct sunlight should be excluded from the area. In addition, storage areas should exclude children with the use of locks. Pesticides should be kept in their original containers. Complete labels should be attached to the product and available at another location in case of an emergency like a fire.

If large amounts of pesticides are stored, an emergency management plan should be developed and filed with local emergency units like the fire company. Remember, pesticides need to be maintained, secured and properly supervised during the entire year.

To Select Charities Carefully

As the end of the year approaches, many households experience an increase in the number of requests they receive for contributions to charities, according to Dr. Robert Thee, Lancaster County Extension Financial Management Agent.

Charitable contributions are important, but not all charities are created equal. When you receive a request from an unfamiliar charity, seek more information before giving. Also, beware of sound like names.

Resist pressure to give immediately. If they need your donation this month, they will still welcome it next month. If you decide to contribute, write a check made out to the charity, not to a company or individual collecting the donations.

Do not pay cash or provide your credit card number in response to a request from a stranger. If you have concerns about a charitable request, contact the Bureau of Charitable Organization, Pennsylvania Department of State at 800-732-0999 or the Better Business Bureau.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WITNESSES

Background Scripture
Luke 1:1-4;
I Corinthians 15:1-4;
I John 1:1-4
Devotional Reading:
Colossians 1:15-20

In the 25 years that he was Bishop in Dornekal, India, Bishop Azariah's diocese grew to almost a quarter million outcast Christians. In relating this to some visitors, he was aksed how illiterate outcasts could possibly do Christian preaching.

"I will tell you," said Bishop Azariah. "A caste villager asked one of our outcasts, 'Have you seen God?' He answered: 'Sir, you knew me two years ago. I was a drunkard. You know me now. I do not think I should have all this change if I had not seen Jesus Christ'." Concluded the Bishop, "Is there any better way of witnessing for God?"

I seriously question whether anyone can be a follower of Jesus Christ and not be a witness. What is a witness? In English it began with the word wit, which meant to "see." In Old English witness originally meant 'knowledge' or 'wisdom.' Derived from personally seeing something. In Middle English times it included a "person who gives testimony."

WHAT'S HE DONE FOR YOU?

Some of us who number ourselves among the followers of Christ concentrate almost exclusively on the first part of the meaning of witness. We identify with Jesus Christ because of what we have seen ourselves or want to see. We want to witness his blessings and benefits to our lives. When ill, we want to witness his healing. When troubled, we want to witness his peace. When confused, we want to witness his guidance. All of us have already witnessed some blessing, some help from Christ, haven't we?

But it doesn't stop with what we witness: we must go on to witness to that which we have witnessed. The outcast of India not only experienced Chirst's healing of his alcoholism, he was able to share what he witnessed with someone else. It was simply a matter of telling someone else what Jesus Christ had done for him.

This is what the New Testament is founded upon — witness, people sharing what Christ has done for and with them. Luke tells Theophilus and his readers of the good news that has been passed on to him by "eyewitnesses and mininsters of the word" (Luke 1:2). In his first letter to the church at Corinth, Paul tells that he only shared with them "what I also received. . ." (I Corinthians 15:3). And John, writing his first epistle, testifies to "That which from the beginning which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon and touched with our hands, concerning the word of life . . ." (I John 1:1,2).

TRANSMITTERS, NOT TERMINALS

None of these serves as a point of termination for the good news of Jesus Christ. Luke, Paul and John all are passing on to others what they have received as witnesses. John says, ". . . that which we have seen and heard we proclaim also to you . . ." (I John 1:3).

Nor are any of us to think of ourselves as terminals for the good news. Our task is to relay to others what we have experienced and received.

Luke passes on what he has witnessed and received so "that you may know the truth concerning the things of which you have been informed" (Luke 1:4). Paul shares what he as witnessed so that his readers may stand fast in their salvation. And John witnesses so "that you may have fellowship with us; and our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ."

William Borden was a deeply dedicated young man who gave his life to take the gospel to Egypt. Dr. Samuel M. Zwemmer summed up the missionary's life: "Borden kept the faith, but he did not keep it to himself."

Nor should we.

then they have expanded by buying some neighboring farms.

The couple made the decision to start farming because they both loved it. "I have always loved to see things grow and loved livestock, and I thought it was a great way to raise a family," said Laszlo. "My wife liked farming, too, so it was a joint decision."

Laszlo and Lana raised five children: Laszlo T., who is an airplane mechanic; Raymond, a business man; Peter, a welder; Marta, a homemaker; and Benjamin, B.J., who is a senior in high school. They also have five grandchildren. The family belongs to the Lutheran Church in Greenville and all five children were active in 4-H.

Lana is a tax preparer and financial adviser and, as her husband proudly pointed out she recently received her masters in business administration.

When the children all lived at home, the family raised fruits and vegetables and ran a farm market in addition to the 50-cow dairy and corn and hay crops. However, the market was discontinued last year because of lack of time and not enough help.

Laszlo and B.J at the farm sign.

Growthy heifers and well conditioned dry cows provide a good start for the next year's milk production.

"It was nice when the whole family was home to help, but it is too much now," said Laszlo.

So today they focus on the dairy. They are milking primarily registered Holsteins with a few grades and a few Jerseys. The herd average is close to 20,000 pounds of milk, 700 pounds of fat, and 600 pounds of protein. Laszlo has been active in several agricultural organizations and is a past president of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

Like all farmers, Laszlo has faced challenges and he claims the greatest has been to keep moving ahead and raise the children without problems.

"I don't think I would do it any other way than what I've done," he said. "I just wish I had more energy now."

He likes America. "It is the land of opportunity," he said, "if you want to get somewhere it is up to you." And the people are nice. He doesn't really have any dislikes and is pretty happy. "There're some cloudy days, but after clouds come sunshine."

You have to take chances in order to get ahead, Laszlo said. "You never see a turtle move ahead unless he sticks his head out."

Laszlo wishes that the young people today who want to farm could have the opportunity to start like he did, and voices concern about the difficulties they face just getting started.

Finally, Laszlo points out the secret to his success. "My success is not because of myself I think it's because of the family together," he said, proudly. "Everybody worked hard in this family."

Announcing New Products for Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers.

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP
This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable. Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high bypass protein into diets that require a lower fat level.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL
A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. A natural alternative to animals fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

GOLDEN MEAL 40
An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions.

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products. We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

Out standing in your field.

The Agri-specialists from Farmers First aren't a bunch of deskbound bankers waiting around for the phone to ring. We get involved with you. Right where you live and work. We lend the money farmers need to keep growing. And, we can help your business in a lot of other ways, too.
We talk the talk. And we walk the walk.

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers and heifers closed .50 to mostly 1.00 lower on early-week losses. At midweek Western direct cattle, beef demand, and futures all posted stiff losses; but local slaughter cattle showed their losses prior to the fundamental declines and late in week the market had good strength. Holstein steers ended the week mostly .50 lower. Slaughter cow prices finished .50 lower, after holding steady most of the week. Slaughter bulls closed 1.00 lower with the best sales posted late in the week on attractive supplies. Supply was made up of around 37 percent slaughter steers, 9 percent slaughter heifers, 38 percent slaughter cows, 5 percent bulls, with the balance feeders.

Berks DHIA Reviews Heifer 98 Program, Awards Members

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Even more than dry cows, heifers can be the most "neglected and forgotten animals on the farm," said George Cudoc, a consulting dairyman for the Pa.DHIA.

Cudoc spoke about the new state DHIA Heifer 98 computer program, which he introduced as one more tool to manage, evaluate, breed, and market dairy heifers.

Cudoc addressed 100 Berks County DHIA members, family, and friends Tuesday afternoon at the Berks County Ag Center in Leesport at the group's annual awards presentation banquet.

The Heifer 98 database program can be customized to meet a wide variety of heifer management needs, which can be transferred to spreadsheet. The computer program can enable dairy farmers to get a complete transcript of what heifers there are on the farm, how they are feeding, what health maintenance steps have been taken — in short, a complete nutritional and health history of each animal.

The records on each heifer can be sorted by groups or individually. Cudoc demonstrated the menu-driven program at the DHIA banquet. The software, which operates on personal computers equipped with Windows 95, costs $29.95.

Cudoc, who was herdsman at Marburger Farm Dairy in Valencia a number of years, said he has been a dairyman and understands what a dairy manager is looking for. The program fits the needs of the dairyman because it can be selective and individually programmed. Heifers can be selected by herd or individually by age, size, body conditioning, or weight.

Breed criteria, such as the registration of dam and sire, can follow right along with other information. Also, an electronic snapshot of the heifer can be scanned in and appear right next to the data in the entry. An entry can be highlighted, and events — including pregnancy checking — can be noted to help the dairy farmer keep track of that essential chore.

In the end, dairy farmers can analyze every heifer to see the "good doers or not good doers," he noted. Information can be sorted by various means to get a complete overview of the farm's heifer program.

All event data entered into the program "follows through" the life of the heifer. The event data that can be stored is limited not necessarily by today's computer size or storage capacity, but by the imagination of the herd manager.

"It's the best buy on the market," Cudoc noted. "It's a very good educational tool."

For more information about the Heifer 98 program, written by Pa.DHIA, contact Cudoc toll-free at (800) 344-8378.

The consulting dairyman for Pa.DHIA also spoke about the extensive uses and benefits to which users can derive the Milk Urea Nitrogen (MUN) program at the state DHIA. He told dairy farmers that the number one input cost is feed, and the MUN helps track the protein portion of the feed costs.

The MUN program carefully tracks the protein usage of the dairy animals on the farm. Are the animals using nitrogen efficiently? And what ways can producers utilize protein more efficiently, thereby, in ways, cutting production costs?

In several cases, Cudoc helped identify where herd managers were underfeeding protein. Cudoc noted that people should use MUN "every month on farms." The use of MUN depends on a lot of factors, including age of cows, types of diet, etc. It is one of the services state DHIA membership offers — and if those reports are prepared, it only makes sense for DHIA members to use them.

"We are in the business to help people troubleshoot a situation and make best use of DHIA records," he said. "We can show you how the cows tell you what is going on in dairy farm."

Also at the banquet, Berks County agent Clyde Myers presented a slide show on the 1997 Herd Management Farm Award Winner, Hiddenview Holsteins, operated by Tim and Teresa Kissling, Robesonia.

"This farm has always been noted for its quality animals and high production," said Myers.

Last year, according to the agent, the farm saw their score in the herd management area increase by 143 points and present a rolling herd average of 29,210 pounds milk, 985 pounds fat, and 931 pounds of protein. "This shows their productive management continues," said Myers.

Hiddenview Farm includes 65 head of registered Holsteins plus replacements on the 144-acre farm, with 92 tillable acres.

In high individual lactation, all separate awards for milk, protein, and fat went to Plushanski Farms, represented by Clyde Plushanski, left. At right is Ken Sanner, chairman of the Berks DHIA.

An additional 120 tillable acres are rented. Crops grown include 60 acres of hay for hay and haylage and 105 acres for corn silage and grain.

When Myers asked the keys to success of their herd, Tim and Teresa replied, "feed management, genetics, and cow care and comfort." Above and beyond these is doing the little things and "paying attention to details," Myers noted. "These are the real differences between success and failure."

Nutrition is a key ingredient in production. The Kisslings feed a two-group TMR of 75 and 95 pounds. Topdressing is done in both groups. Sixty percent of the forage in the ration is alfalfa haylage and 40 percent of the ration's forage is corn silage with the rest, high moisture ear corn. A 21 percent protein complete feed is used as a topdress.

The Kisslings check moisture levels. Haylage is checked twice per week, or everyday if changes are obvious, Myers noted.

Tim believes using a Koster tester is easier and more accurate than using a microwave.

Pieces of plastic are used to show new cuttings. Cows are fed for a 55-pound dry matter intake. For the Kisslings, it is essential to watch consumption and digestive changes, as in fecal consistency. The Kisslings believe that cows always milk best on first-cutting haylage.

"The base of any successful herd is genetics," Myers said.

Because of good breeding, it has not been necessary to beef cows because of low production. Sire selection is based on high component, milk, and type.

Via ET work the last several years, 75 percent of the herd's genetic base is from two cow families. Many bulls have been selected by the commercial studs from these two cow families. But ET work is used to market animals, not improve milk production.

Teresa cautions that farms should not completely rely on ET work to improve genetics. Until sexing is perfected, Myers noted, the costs of ET work "is too expensive."

The top 25 TPI bulls are used. Milk and type are the most important traits. Having excellent type, Myers noted, means cows stay in the herd longer.

Watching the repeatability of bulls is also important. In the type area, udder characteristics are the top priority, followed by feet, legs, and frame. Teresa strongly believes that production follows frame and size. Using bulls from different studs while analyzing cow type helps build a good genetic base.

The last important area, Myers said, is cow comfort and care. In the Kisslings' opinion, stall comfort is the "number one factor in cow care and comfort," said Myers. This includes a stall size of 70 inches by 51 inches, mattress plus bedding, or a bedding saver plus lots of bedding.

Ventilation, comprised of smaller inlets and fans (for winter) and tunnel for summer, has eliminated cow summer slumps.

And herd health, including a vaccination program for each cow, is critical. Vaccinations include a nine-way vaccine with the five-way Lepto, BVD, IBR, PI3, and Hemophilus Somnus. Clostridium is also used.

Mastitis is managed through the somatic cell count program. Monitoring cows with high counts is essential. If fresh cows are high, Myers noted, they are treated immediately, as well as any cow with clinical mastitis. Oxytocin is used when cows are treated. J5 coliform vaccine has reduced the incidence of coliform mastitis. Cows are vaccinated when they are dried off and a booster is given three weeks later. Heifers are vaccinated when they calve and with a booster three weeks later. Dry treatments are rotated as well as teat dips. Iodine is used in the summer and when cows are on pasture. Cholorixdene is used in the winter.

Changes to help labor efficiency are always taking place, Myers said. A new eight-month manure storage of 96,000 cubic feet is being erected for manure from 65 cows and 80 heifers and milkhouse wastes. A push-off ramp from the heifer area and gravity pipe from the stall barn moves the manure to the storage.

"Cost sharing was received," Myers said. "Other farmers in the Tully should consider taking advantage of these funds to help improve water quality in the watershed."

Herd and cow awards were presented at the banquet by Paul Hartman, Berks County DHIA secretary, and Barry Gauker. For the herds, separate awards for high herd milk, protein, and butterfat were presented to Fantasyland Holsteins, Robesonia. In high herd milk, Fantasyland was 30,468 pounds, protein 979 pounds, and butterfat, 1,074 pounds.

Most improved herd for milk, at +4,328 pounds, went to Dana and Debra Stoudt, Bernville. The Stoudts also won most improved herd for protein, at +151 pounds. Most improved herd for fat went to Ring-Kul Farm, Fleetwood, at +151 pounds. Lowest herd somatic cell count went to Knauer Brothers, Robesonia, at 150,000 SCC.

The herd management award went to Ring-Kul Farm at 144 points.

In the cow awards category, high lifetime milk at 322,039 pounds and high lifetime protein at 10,340 pounds went to Reu-Hel Farms, Mohrsville. High lifetime fat at 12,278 pounds went to Plushanski Farms, Kutztown.

In high individual lactation, all separate awards for milk, protein, and fat went to Plushanski Farms. In the milk category, Plushanski won at 42,606 pounds, protein at 1,465 pounds, and fat at 1,612 pounds.

George Cudoc, left, spoke about the new state DHIA Heifer 98 computer program, which he introduced as one more tool to manage, evaluate, breed, and market dairy heifers. Cudoc explains the program to a Berks DHIA member Tuesday afternoon at the Berks County Ag Center in Leesport at the group's annual awards presentation banquet.

Lancaster County Eligible for Disaster Relief

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Congressman Joseph R. Pitts' office (PA-16) announced today that Lancaster County has been declared one of several contiguous disaster areas by the Department of Agriculture (USDA) as a result of losses due to hail, heavy rainfall and tornado winds which occurred in June 2, 1998.

This declaration allows family-sized farm operators who have experienced significant damage to be eligible for low-interest emergency loans from the Farm Service Agency (FSA). The FSA considers each loan application separately and will make its decision based on several criteria including the extent of the losses, security available, and repayment ability.

Pitts' spokeswoman Tonya Neff Klause hailed the declaration as important for farms that have sustained heavy storm damage. She said, "We are pleased that the Secretary of Agriculture included Lancaster County in his list of disaster areas that can now recover some of the serious costs that resulted from the storms of the summer of 1998. Now several of our family farms will be able to receive some much needed relief."

chairs John Allen, Saxonburgh; Don Gardner, Amity; and Sam Hunt, Uniontown.

In April the group projected the slaughter of the first animals by the end of September and a test marketing phase in October and November. With this time line on track, the final report, projected for February 1, 1999 should come in on schedule. Development for the project has involved a series of organizing meetings over the last year and the services of a panel of seven experts, brought together by Robert Junk, president of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, Harrisburg.

Others providing help for organizing include Therese Tuttle, an attorney with the National Farmers Union, who is providing legal advice and organizational expertise; Shawn Moore, a meat marketing specialist from the University of Wyoming; Don Fretts, Fayette County extension agent; Gary Greg, 84 Packing company; Jim Willis, Green County Beef Producer; Tom Elliott, owner and operator of the N-Bar Ranch, Montana and Allen Matthews, Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture.

Marketing The Beef

This study has identified areas where production farmers need to increase their involvement with the product. One specific idea that will be investigated as the study progresses includes direct feedback from the consumer. As part of the marketing test in three "upscale" restaurants, customers were asked to fill out a 12-question survey on their dining experience. This feedback will be used by the restaurant owner, the steering committee and the producer to adjust the product to meet the customers needs. According to Tom Elliot, surveys, including the "1995 National Beef Quality Audit" show that there is a shortfall in the production of premium beef. He noted that there is a market for 7% prime beef, but only 1% of production grades prime. And a market for 21% upper 2/3 choice, but only 11% is produced. The marketing test will attempt to take advantage of those needs and build a sustainable future for marketing beef.

Part of the marketing effort includes presenting the beef as a branded product called Keystone Certified Beef. Table placards in the restaurant note that "Certified Keystone Beef" is available, and the restaurant uses the words "Certified Keystone Beef" on the menu. To be certified, producers must meet the coop standards, both in the production cycle and grading on the rail.

Other products may join the fresh beef in the restaurant line; including a pot roast meal and a beef stew. These products are also in the testing stage, and a prototype of the pot roast was unveiled at the news conference. This beef is pre-cooked and packed for the busy family who want to eat a healthy meal. Behavioral surveys have found that busy families facing meal choices budget less than an hour a day for food preparation. Half the time, these people will decide on a menu after 4:30 in the evening. From slaughter to cooking and packaging, the processing for these products is being done by Eight Four Packing Company, Eighty Four, PA.

Feedback For The Producer

One basic principle this study group has identified is that the producer must grow what the consumer is willing to buy. This group has taken steps to strengthen one of the weak links in determining what has been produced. That feedback link is individual data on each beef as it hangs on the rail after grading. This information will help the producer know if the breeding, feeding and slaughter process have come together to meet the consumers needs and the standards set by the cooperative. One of the key provisions in the standards includes a no growth hormones or implants while on feed.

The standards set by the group are not breed specific, so any breed can meet the standard, according to Tom Elliot. However, the coop has set long-term production guidelines, feeding guidelines, and processing guidelines. Tracking the whole production cycle is needed in order to meet coop standards.

The feeling expressed in the group is that it has to be a learning organization, flexible enough to take advantage of new markets, while building on past experiences. And according to Bob Junk, the process is a way to test before making a big investment which may not produce a return-though there are no guarantees, it is a way to increase the possibility of a profitable return for the farmer.

Farmers interested in joining this effort are encouraged to contact John Allen, who is especially looking for seed stock producers who can meet the coop standards.

Land O'Lakes Delegates Elect Corporate Director-Nominees

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Land O'Lakes delegates representing the Mid-Atlantic region recently elected director-nominees to serve on the Land O'Lakes corporate board.

The delegates elected director-nominees for each of the six membership regions in the Mid-Atlantic. The elections were held during the fall region meeting in Lancaster and will be ratified during the 1999 annual meeting Feb. 24-25 in Minneapolis.

Those elected as director-nominees are Charles E. Schilling, Petersburg, Pa., Region 51; Roy W. Hetrick, Bernville, Pa., Region 52; Gordon B. Hoover, Gap, Pa., Region 53; David N. Noss, Port Royal, Pa., Region 54; Robert A. Winner, Moorestown, N.J., Region 55; and Kenneth Schoenberg, Shippensburg, Pa., Region 56.

During the meeting, Jack Gherty, president and chief executive officer, thanked the 300 delegates for their leadership and involvement in the cooperative. He also acknowledged their support of the Land O'Lakes/Atlantic Dairy Cooperative merger.

"The merger was a critical step in our efforts to establish a truly national milk procurement and dairy processing system," Gherty said. "An integrated system is a key element in the ongoing formula for dairy industry success."

State, Industry Environmental Programs Should Be Given Chance

(Part 3)

UNION DEPOSIT (Dauphin Co.) — Up until recently, the long, ongoing battle between Pennsylvania's agricultural industry and anti-agricultural forces over how to deal with overloading of nutrients in some of the state's waters was considered settled by many with the passage of the state's Nutrient Management Act.

But, the heat of battle in the state has been recently re-ignited by the federal government with its proposal for federal oversight.

The Clinton Administration's newest proposal is to broaden the interpretation of existing authorities granted under the nation's Clean Water Act, supercede state authority and essentially micromanage the nation's livestock operations.

In September, the USDA and EPA released the draft USDA-EPA Unified National Strategy for Animal Feeding Operations for public comment.

The comment period ends Jan. 19.

The gist of the Unified Strategy is that all livestock operations develop, file and implement comprehensive nutrient management plans as described by the federal government.

While the strategy holds out volunterism as an option for small farming operations, it purports that the federal government can declare any livestock operation to be required to have mandatory nutrient management planning, depending upon the cause-effect suspicions of a field agent, and the general water quality of the watershed in which the farm sits.

The main excuse for the proposed plan is that the Clean Water Act provides that high density livestock operations (EPA calls them concentrated animal feeding operations or CAFOs) can be considered point sources of pollution and therefore be required to have an operating permit under the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) program.

The EPA is reportedly disastisfied with the success it has had in getting all of the nation's estimated 6,000 CAFOs to operate under NPDES permit.

While Pennsylvania is in the middle of a process of compromising with EPA over its Nutrient Management Act regulations which have been in effect for less than a year, the new strategy would seem to dispense with the value of a customized state program, such as Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act.

At a recent "listening session" — a newly coined term to describe a public comment hearing — held at the Sheraton Inn Harrisburg East in Union Deposit, professional representatives of environmental groups testified to their support for federal oversight, but complained that it didn't call for more of a heavy hand over farming, such as requiring phosphorus planning, etc.

While the environmentalists generally called for greater federal government control over all livestock operations in the United States, a few agricultural advocates did express concern about the possible effects the draft Strategy would have — on state programs and on agricultural industry programs established to control nutrient pollution of water.

In other words, unlike the spokespeople for environmentalist publicity groups, not everybody at the meeting expressed a desire for increased governmental control of day-to-day farming activities and controlling the size of farming businesses.

Bob Mikesell is a professional hired by Penn State University with financial support by the National Pork Producers. He represented the Pennsylvania Pork Producers.

"I'm one of the thin line of folks (who are) out there in the field dealing with producers one-on-one, trying to help them become better environmental stewards.

"The draft Unified Strategy for Animal Feeding Operations provides a solid basis for recommending that all livestock producers handle manure in a responsible manner.

"However, there are currently several educational programs sponsored by the National Pork Producers Council which are already accomplishing many of the same goals and objective found in the draft strategy," he said, referring to the National Pork Council's national Pork Dialogue of 1997 which established an ideal for environmentally responsible hog production.

"For example," he said, "the pollution prevention strategies program (of the Pork Dialogue) helps recognize producers who strive for environmental excellence.

"More importantly, through this program we can show producers firsthand specific strategies for improving their environmental stewardship," Mikesell said.

"In the past three years, we have conducted more than 130 environmental audits of Pennsylvania swine producers through this program.

"A second program just underway in this state is the On-farm Odor and Environmental Assessment Program.

"This effort provides a more intensive evaluation of a producer's environmental efforts and delivers detailed documentation of the producer's strengths and challenges in regard to odor control and nutrient management."

He said that Pennsylvania has recently completed its own environmental program similar to the national Pork Dialogue.

"Our document, which will be published before the end of the year, is entitled, 'Environmental Standards of Production for Larger Pork Producers in Pennsylvania.'

"The document, which includes many recommendations that exceed current regulations, provides standards under which we believe Pennsylvania pork producers should operate.

"Finally, we have in Pennsylvania the Nutrient Management Act, which requires operators of intensive livestock operations to develop nutrient management plans," Mikesell said.

"Since the enforcement of this regulation commenced in October 1997, Penn State and other professionals have provided dozens of training and certification workshops to help producers come into compliance.

"All of these programs and efforts, which I have briefly summarized, support the same concepts that are outlined in the Draft Unified Strategy.

"While we are not opposed to regulations that protect our environment, we believe that regulations must be based on sound science.

"Decisions and assumptions made based only on a farm size, rather than its environmental track record, have no place in regulations of any kind.

"While Pennsylvania's pork producers generally support the goals of the Unified Strategy, we oppose any and all instances where the Draft Strategy allows social policy and unfounded public hysteria to supplant sound science."

Don Robinson, director of the Lancaster County Conservation District, who was also involved in helping provide research- and experience-based information in support and guidance of the development of Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act regulations, commented on behalf of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts.

He discussed several issues of

Lancaster DHIA Holds Annual Meeting

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Members of the Lancaster DHIA held their annual meeting Thursday with reports of a successful year. While in the process of establishing two new supervisor routes, the association registered a loss for the year, but reserves were used to pay off the new lab equipment, and the year ended with the association registering a debt free position. Lancaster DHIA continues to be the the fourth largest associate of the Raleigh system, tied with Texas. Local officials believe Lancaster has taken a national leadership role in this association that now has 50 percent of the cows in the nation on test.

Melvin R. Stoltzfus had the high herd for both milk and protein with 35,583m 1,074p. The lowest SCC award went to Gary and Jenny Bowman, Quarryville with a count of 71,000. Other top production winners are: Ayrshire, Warren Schmuck, Peach Bottom, 17,348m 591p; Brown Swiss: Donald Trimble, Peach Bottom, 21,042m 755p; Guernsey: Axel Linde & Millie Widmann, Oxford, 17,764m 619p; Jersey: Delmar & Rita Wenger, Lancaster, 18,336m 692p.

Mose Martin was recognized for 40 years of service as a technician. Other honored technicians were: Lee Landis, 35 years; Dwight Rohrer, Joan Myers, and Keith Martin, 5 years.

Quality service award were presented to technicians who achieved a score of 85 or more points from yearly evaluations. These award winners are: George Book, Nancy Book, William Heistand, Becky Hershey, Lee Landis, Harold Lindecamp, Keith Martin, Ken Miller, Joan Myers, Harold Probst, Dwight Rohrer, Dennis Shelly, and Alfred Weller.

All directors were re-elected with John Harnish, Washington Boro, elected as an addtional director from Region 1. Other region one directors are John Burkholder, Washington Boro, and Joe Graybeal, Peach Bottom; Region 2 directors include Mahlon King, Gap; Melvin Lantz, Gap; and Tom Lapp, Gap.

Region 3 directiors are Rodney Denlinger, Gordonville; John Groff, Leola; and Dale Hershey, Ronks.

Region 4 directors are Carl Martin, Ephrata; Leonard Martin, Ephrata; and John Wanner, Narvon.

Region 5 directors are: Steve Hershey, Manheim; Clair Oberholtzer, Elizabethtown; and Frank Reist, Lebanon.

The 1997-98 average production on 90,110 cows on test in the association is 21,132m 754f 663p. That is up from 20,053m on 81,804 cows last year.

Foundation Announces Grant Winners

GLENMONT, N.Y. — Richard T. McGuire, chair of New York Farm Bureau's Foundation for Agricultural Education, has announced that the Foundation has awarded nearly $13,000 in grants to four different agricultural organizations.

"I am proud to announce that for the first time, this Foundation is awarding grant money to four beneficial programs. The Foundation is very proud to be able to award these monies and we look forward to seeing the results of our investment in the community," said McGuire, the former New York State department of agriculture and markets commissioner.

Grant recipients include:

• Farm On Wheels, Inc., $5,000 for the Agricultural Education Newsletter for "Barnyard Buddy Program."

• New York Beef Industry Council, $500 for stickers for "Wow! That Cow" Kids Fun Farm.

• Cornell Cooperative Extension of Cattaraugus County, $1,675 for agriculture careers training for high school and junior high school guidance counselors.

Are You Getting Your Money's Worth?
If You're Not Liming Properly, You're Throwing Away Part Of Every Fertilizer Dollar.
By correcting soil acidity, limestone frees-up desirable nutrients that feed your crop. Plus, limestone ties up toxic elements that reduce crop production.
High nitrogen use in modern farming practices acidifies the soil quickly. This limits your crop vigor and yields. Therefore, today it's more important than ever to lime according to soil test results. Proper liming gives you the most from your fertilizer dollar.

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — 4-H members and their families gathered at the Leslie N. Firth Learning Center in Mercer to celebrate the past year's achievements and look ahead to next year.

Outstanding 4-H Boy honors went to Tom Uber of Harrisville. Tom, is the 19 years-old son of Deb Uber, also of Harrisville, has been a member of Hayburners 4-H Dairy Club, County Council club, and parts 'n' Pieces Veterinary Science Club. He has held several offices and has been active in showing dairy cattle, winning a number of showmanship awards during his years in 4-H.

Mindy Tavares captured outstanding 4-H Girl honors. Mindy is 17 and is the daughter of Paul and Karen Tavares of Grove City. Mindy has been very actively involved in the 4-H sewing project. She has been to states in fashion review and was a state finalist in 1996. Mindy is also a member of the Parts 'n' Pieces where she has held every office at one time or another.

4-H Club Officers who did an outstanding job received awards for their work. They are: Roxanne Green, Katie Carr, and Lisa Abernathe, secretary; T. Wane Ward, newsreporter; Marsha Crosky and Rotasha Gunn, treasurer.

4-H member who did an outstanding job on the project books competed for the Pennwest Farm Credit Awards. The winners were: Tammy Menke, dairy; Jason McGhee, beef; Pam Warner, swine; Sara Kish, horse production; Jason Hewitt, sheep; and Marsha Crosky, goat. The award for Outstanding Agricultural Project Book went to the dairy winner Tammy Menke.

Quality Farm and Fleet sponsored awards for the non-agricultrual project books. Winners were: Ashley Unagst, horse performance senior; Sara Kish and Amy Bartholomew, horse performance junior; Mindy James, pet goat; Jen Christianson, foods and nutrition; Mindy James, dog and cat; Kim Powell, rabbit; Michele Lentz, llama; Heather Blair, entomology; and Brad Graham, dairy goat.

Marsha Crosky earned the teen leader award. Regional camp counselors Holly Braho, Sara Bollyard, and Kim Voorhies were recognized for their efforts. Also members who competed at Penn State 4-H Achievement Days received ribbons for their achievements. They were: Megan Barber, Amy Bartholomew, and Sara Kish, horse judging junior; Mindy Tavares, fashion review, and David Chess dairy judging.

Outstanding Equine member honors went to Megan Barber.

Finally, the Mercer County 4-H members who have reached the age of 19 and are moving on were presented with the "Over the Hill Awards." Twenty-five members received the award this year. They were: Kelly Clark, Angela Blake, Tom Cusick, Doug Barber, Matt Barber, Holly Braho, Keyuina Cameron, Amber Amon, Thomas Courtney, Paul Critchlow, Shana Derranger, Christine Elder, Terra Ferris, Nicki Hancock, Gwen Medic, Tom Uber, Lisa Werger, Jessica Williams, Tom Wolf, Beth Herman, Ashsa Novac, Jamie Dangrow, Holly Paden, Jamee Philson, and Robert Shellenburger.

ARA Honors Legislators

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The Agricultural Retailers Association (ARA) announced Dec. 9, at its annual Convention & Expo, Sen. Conrad Burns (R-Mont.) and Rep. Steve Buyer (R-Ind.) are the association's legislator of the year.

Both Burns and Buyer worked diligently with ARA to secure provisions on HM-200 Hazmat requirements. Their efforts ensured the retailer perspective was included in discussions surrounding new placarding and transportation requirements.

Farm-City Banquet Provides People Sense Of Community

and commercial and other organizational exhibitions.

The floor was filled with white round tables and chairs to seat banquet participants. The wall behind the main stage and podium was decorated with quilts, and the rest of the walls were lined with exhibits booths.

At one end of the large hall stood a 20-foot tall, decorated Christmas tree. In the lobby area, there were also various displays and a number of Christmas trees, and a hat and coat check area with donations to be used to start a new 4-H camping program in memory of Theresa Lopinto.

Other donations were being accepted to help victims of Hurricane Mitch.

Opposite the stage were three long buffet tables.

With all that in one large hall, there was still at least 10 feet of aisle between tables and displays.

The Lebanon Farm-City Program, a program conducted through the Lebanon Area Chamber of Commerce headed by Stephan Vegoe, has changed over the years, with some variety in the amount of actual open house activity at farms.

This year, during October, there were three farms opened up to tours, though this was just a mention during the banquet.

Kenneth Winebark, former county livestock agent for Penn State Extension, who has been involved in helping children with problems find self-confidence, direction, fulfillment and a sense of love through religion and self-help, provided the invocation.

Toward the end of the banquet meal, the Lebanon High School Chamber Singers, in their long school colored gowns entertained from a four-tiered riser adjacent to the main stage. Unamplified, they sang a mix of holiday and classic songs with piano accompianment.

The Lebanon Farm-City Program includes a poster contest for youth, and this year's winner was 9-year-old Schane Clark, son of Gail Clark of Annville. Schane said it was the second time he won a poster contest; the first time he won a contest was when he was 4-years-old and entered and won a local framing-store competition.

Dennis Grumbine of Myerstown, director of the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex, represented the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and explained that state Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr. would have enjoyed being present, but was instead in Mexico on a goodwill mission to help with the grand opening of the nation's largest livestock show.

He explained that Secretary Hayes would also be inviting a contingent from Mexico to attend the state Farm Show, to be held Jan. 9-14 at the Complex in Harrisburg.

A traditional part of the Lebanon Farm-City Program is the presentation of a century farm award and a century business award.

Jeff Werner, co-chairman of the Lebanon Farm-City Banquet, presents a century business award to David Harpel, representing Harpel's Inc., a Lebanon family owned business that reached the century mark this year.

(Lebanon County actually has two century farm award winners this year, although the first one was uncharacteristically presented during the county Extension annual meeting in November.)

Grumbine presented the award to Frank Reist, who accepted on behalf of his family.

The Reist family farm began in 1851 with 41 acres and a herd of purebred Holstein-Friesan dairy cattle. The farm has continuously maintained Holstein dairy cattle on the farm ever since, and the acreage has grown to 300.

Up until 1939, the farm bottled and sold milk.

Frank Reist represents the seventh generation to farm that land. He recognized his family, wife Cindy and daughter Michelle; his mother Eunice Reist; older brother Carl and his wife Linda; brother Donald, who works with him at the farm full time, and Donald's wife Cathy; and brother Gary and his wife Valerie.

Grumbine told the group that the farm started under the Fernsler name and in 1938 Frank Fernsler became a master farmer.

Farm-City Banquet Committee co-chairs, Carol Howard and Jeff Werner (who also is the county Farm Bureau president), presented the century business award.

The recipient of that award was Harpel's Inc., currently celebrating its 100th anniversary as a family owned concern.

It began as a photography business with Luther Harpel, whose many and early photographs have served as rich historic documents for the community. Many are in possession by the county historic association.

His son Donald continued the business, and then passed it on to his son David, whose son Rick Harpel now serves as president of the operation.

Over the years it became an office and photography supply store, and while photography work dropped off during interim generations, the current generation has successfully restarted that aspect with Rick and his wife Mary Lee opening up a studie and doing event photography, as well as framing and photo processing.

Furthermore it also has a franchise copy center, called Copies Now.

David Harpel accepted the award and thanked the community for its patronage over the years, allowing the family business to serve them, and for continuing to do so.

He also recognized his wife Anne and his aunt Lucille, daughter of Luther.

Henry Homan mentioned that as a youth in the community, he even

Easement Program Under Way

MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.) — The Susquehanna County Agricultural Land Preservation Board was established by the County Commissioners in 1989 to preserve farmland in Susquehanna County by administering a program to purchase agricultural conservation easements from landowners in the county. The easements preserve farms with better soils so the land will be available for agricultural production forever. The owner of the farm continues to farm as usual but is restricted from developing or using the land for any purpose other than agriculture.

To date over 2,088 acres have been preserved in Susquehanna County. The board is currently working with two other farms which will add another 540 acres when accepted into the program.

Program funding comes from an annual allocation by the Susquehanna County Commissioners. These county funds are matched by the State Bureau of Farmland Protection, which also awards grant money to the counties.

To be eligible, farms must be located in an agricultural security area and contain at least 50% of soils in cropland or pasture which are class I through IV soils. Also, the farm must be capable of generating annual gross receipts of at least $25,000.

Program applications are available now. Completed applications will be accepted between November 1 and January 15, 1999. For an application and/or more information, contact Evie Goff at the Susquehanna County Cooperative Extension office in Montrose, telephone (717) 278-1158.

Mifflin County Holds Farm/City Banquet

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

MILROY (Mifflin Co.) — Mifflin Countians certainly had a lot to be proud of at their annual Farm City banquet held recently at the Milroy Fire Hall. Nearly 180 people gave Miss Pennsylvania Mayra Acosta and Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes Jr. standing ovations.

Raised in Lewistown, Acosta said she was proud to call Mifflin County her home. Acosta spoke of her role as Miss Pennsylvania and the importance of pageant scholarship money. Over $30 million is given to pageant winners and participants across the nation each year.

Just as important is the participant's desire to make a difference. Acosta's critical issue is CPR and injury prevention. "I'm not a doctor, but I know I could save someone's life if I had to."

Acosta plans to study ethnomusicology, which is the study of folk and ethnic music, specifically Latin American music. Her family is from the Dominican Republic.

Huntingdon County native Sam Hayes spoke of the importance of a strong agriculture in maintaining a strong nation. He spoke in spite of laryngitis.

"Show me a national that can't feed, cloth, or shelter itself, and I will show you a nation a risk . . . Beyond food, clothing, and shelter, agriculture in Pennsylvania and America provides the social cement, the economic service, and the political stability every nation needs."

Hayes is a Vietnam veteran who was awarded the Bronze Star and was a lawmaker from 1970 until 1992. "We couldn't be nearly as good as we are if we didn't have the good agriculture that we have here in Pennsylvania."

The David Stuck family stepped forward to accept the Farm Family Business Award. The Stucks' farm at Plum Bottom near Reedsville. Stuck began farming in 1989 with 45 cows. After remodeling the milking parlor at Plum Bottom, Stuck increased his herd to 200 cows. David and his wife, Jennifer, keep the day-to-day operations running smoothly while David's parents, Barry and Jean Stuck, help by keeping the farm records. The Stucks employ one part-time and four full-time workers and milk three times a day.

The City Family Business Award went to the Melvin Wilson family of Wilson's Meats and Grocery in Lewistown. Melvin has owned the market since 1965. His son, Steve, is a major part of the operation. Steve accepted the award on behelf of his family, including his mother, Thelma, who passed away recently.

The Mifflin County Conservation District Goodyear Award went to the Meily family from Huntingdon. The district also gave $50 each to the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and FFA for conservation projects.

The Mifflin County Garden Club gave Acosta a rose. A rose bush will be planted in the gardens at the McCoy House in Lewistown in her honor. Hayes was given a limited edition Christmas ornament designed as a fund-raiser for the National Gardens in Washington. Although ground has not yet been broken for the gardens, the Botanical Gardens will be building the gardens sole through private donations.

Current Low Prices No Cause For Farm Crisis

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Despite current low gain and livestock prices, the U.S. farm sector is in strong financial shape and far from the troubles experienced during the farm crisis of the early to mid-1980s, said Ohio State University Extension agricultural economist Allan Lines.

However, things could get worse in the next two to three years if prices don't improve, Lines said.

"Yes, there are regional pockets of distress in areas such as North Dakota and Texas, and producers of some commodities are experiencing financial difficulty," he said. "But farm finanacial date available from the U.S. Department of Agriculture presents an overwhelming picture of financial strength for the nation and Ohio."

The net worth of U.S. farm businesses is estimated to be a record $957 billion, up almost $190 billion during the past five years. Ohio's farm business net worth is estimated at a record $33 billion, up nearly $9 billion during the same period. Total assets on U.S. farms are expected to be valued at $1.13 trillion on Jan. 1, 1999, up by more than $200 billion during the past five years. Ohio's assets are an estimated record $37 billion, an increase of nearly $10 billion.

At the same time, farmers are being more cautious about borrowing money to buy land and equipment, which is what got them into trouble in the '80s, Lines said.

"Even with continued low prices, it doesn't appear we'll have a situation to recreate the crisis of the '80s because farmers are not borrowing as aggressively now as they did then," he said. "In the '80s, farmers' debts were too high and when commodity prices dropped they didn't have the ability to pay off those debts."

For example, farm debt repayment capacity for the U.S. farm sector is 61 percent, meaning farmers are only using 61 percent of the debt they could support from cash flow. In the early '80s, this figure was nearly 110 percent, which means farmers owed more money than they could support, Lines said.

The U.S. farm debt-to-asset ratio is now at a very safe 15 percent, which means for every $100 a farm is worth it owes $15 in debt, Lines said. Ohio farms are in even better shape at 11 percent. In 1985, the U.S. debt-to-asset ratio reached nearly 24 percent and was above 20 percent from 1982 to 1986.

Another good indicator of financial stress on farms is the debt service ratio, which measures the number of times farm business could pay its principle and interest payment with its current cash flow. A safe ratio is about 2. This number hasn't fallen below 2 during the past five years and is estimated at 2.7 for the U.S. in 1998. In comparison, the U.S. debt service ratio was below 1.4 from 1981 to 1984.

While the financial health is strong on U.S. and Ohio farms right now, average corn, soybean, and hog prices need to improve over the next two to three years. If they don't, the economic climate on U.S. and Ohio farms could deteriorate rapidly as land values would likely begin to fall, Lines said.

Average U.S. corn prices this October were $1.91 per bushel, 63 cents below October 1997 and 39 cents below the average from 1990 to 1992. Soybeans were $5.18 per bushel, down $1.32 from last October and 43 cents below the 1990-92 average. Average hog prices — with lows in the teens — have fallen to just more than 28 cents per pound, nearly 19 cents down from October 1997 and more than 19 cents below the 1900-92 average.

"It doesn't appear we are headed for a reoccurrence of the '80s debacle, but that doesn't mean it can't happen," Lines said. "There are things that could trigger similar hard times for farmers, and a continuation of $2 corn and $5.25 soybeans for a three-year period is one example."

If crop production is normal over the next three years, prices may rise slightly to $2.20 per bushel corn and $5.60 per bushel soybeans by 2001, and hog prices could recover to 47 cents per pound. But that may not be enough to save some farms from the reduced profits that would make existing debts too difficult to pay, Lines said. Asset values — primarily land — also would decline, weakening balance sheets, reducing the ability to borrow and compounding financial distress.

To prepare for the potential downturn in the farm economy, producers should develop and implement strategies to reduce debt and control costs, he said.

Lebanon Farm-City Banquet

worked at Harpel's for a time.

One of the main highlights of the annual Farm-City Program are the job-exchanges. The program matches up two women and two men, representing an exchange between farm and city life.

While the one-day exchanges are held earlier in the year, the annual banquet provides a forum for participants to tell of their experiences.

Exchange participants were Karen Nolt and Dawn Richard, and Bruce Boltz and Andy Mick.

Karen Nolt and her husband Scott farm in Lebanon and actually their herd led the county in average production this past year for those herds on test with the Pennsvylania Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Dawn Richard, originally from the Jonestown area, is regional director of sales for Holiday Inn, and is headquartered at the Grantville Holiday Inn.

Bruce Boltz is an owner/operator in the Yordy-Boltz Tree Farm operation.

Andy Mick is publisher of the Lebanon Daily News newspaper.

Richard took the microphone first, with Homan advising to limit comments to five minutes.

She said she met up with Karen and worked with her for 9 hours, "I know that's a short day (in farming)."

According to Richard she arrived at 6 a.m. and began physically helping to milk cows. She helped teat dip, feed animals and load hay.

She explained how the Nolts milk their about 100 head of mostly registered Holsteins three-times-per day — at 6 a.m., 2 p.m., and 10 p.m.

While she didn't go into detail, ending with time to spare, she ended, "I realize farmers have a true passion for what they do and strong commitment."

Karen Nolt said she throught she was going to be late for her day with Richard at the Holiday Inn. Karen said she figured she'd have time to help with milking and feeding calves before having to change clothes and get to the Holiday Inn on time.

In her rush to leave, she fell and scuffed her knees and dirtied her clothes, so she had to change clothes again. Still, she managed to be on time.

She said that Richard books the hotel for banquets and other events, sets up meals, does follow-up with clients and works hard. According to Nolt, it was no surprise that Richard was named Pennsylvania's 1998 businesswoman of the year.

Nolt noted that there seemed to be a great deal of similarity in the amount of attention to detail that needs to be done in dairy production and in managing hotel sales, but she isn't ready to make the switch.

"I don't think I would want to work with the public on a daily basis," Nolt said. "I much prefer dealing with cows instead."

For the men's exchange, Boltz said he started the day at 6 a.m., and sat in with Mick and four of the daily newspaper's editors in analyzing the news collected and in deciding what priority to assign in prominence in the newspaper. He said their main concern was in deciding what local people want to read.

The meeting lasted a half-hour, Boltz said, referring to notes he had taken during the exchange day.

He talked about how the paper was being put together page by page and shot on a large camera and plated for use on the printer. Putting the paper together, the news stories and the advertisements, seemed like "... a big puzzle, not a small one."

He said that after the paper was fairly well finalized and being run off the presses that he sat in with Mick as he held a meeting with his sales staff.

According to Boltz, no fewer than three times during the meeting did Mick admonish his sales staff to be more aggressive, telling them, "That's what pays the bills, not the news, not what people read."

Boltz said he also got to see the operation's new automatic inserter — a mechanism for taking the preprinted advertisement supplements and putting them into the newspaper.

He also noted Mick's constant attention to time and ensuring that the operation didn't fall behind and lose time, equated to money.

Boltz said that perhaps the one thing that Mick said that impressed more than any other was Mick's perspective of the county, coming from a person not from the area who has traveled around and worked in different communities on different papers.

"Andy made me realize how lucky we are as to the quality of people who work here," Boltz said. "I asked him, 'How do we rate?' And he said, 'Second to none.'"

When Mick took to the podium he said he was pleased with the type of farm to which was assigned as a participant in the exchange.

He said he was glad it wasn't a livestock farm, but instead, a tree farm.

In an effort to prepare himself for the Farm-City Banquet sharing of his experience, Mick said he scanned joke books and the Internet. "There are no jokes about trees," he deadpanned.

However, he said he came across a story about the origin of the Christmas tree, that it was started by St. Boniface, sometime around 700 A.D., as an English Christian missionary in Germany.

According to Mick, the story goes that St. Boniface came across a pagan ritual where a young boy was tied to a large oak tree and about to be sacrificed to gods.

Boniface purportedly stopped the act saving the boy, cut down the oak, and there next to the fallen oak was a spruce, an evergreen.

He pulled up the evergreen and handed it to the boy and started the observation that the spruce represented everylasting life.

Mick said, "In some way, shape or form, that was the beginning of Yordy-Boltz Tree Farm," he said.

However, he also noted that if the tree-raising operation only depended upon the sale of Christmas trees, there would only be enough business for three months of work per year.

Instead, the tree farm raises a variety of landscaping evergreens that are sold widely for industrial, commercial and residential landscaping, as well as for golf course design.

He said he also learned that Boltz doesn't just plan for the immediate future, but must plan what he plants for a return 3- to 5- years or more down the road.

Boltz has to project what people will want years in advance. Mick said, "I never knew there were so many varieties (of evergreens and ornamentals)."

Not only does the Yordy-Boltz Farm use its own land, but leases property also, and Mick said he was impressed with that and also watching tree harvesting.

He said he expected to see crews of laborers with shovels and picks, but was impressed to see a specialized harvester with hydraulics that pulled trees out of the ground and wrapped them. The only labor involvement was wiring the burlap tight, he said.

Comparing jobs, Mick said he would like to spend one or two days on the farm in the fall walking through the trees of the large farm, but, "I don't think I'm patient enough to wait 3- to 5- years to see the results of my work."

Another tradition of the Lebanon Farm-City Banquet is the auctioning of a sheep-to-shaw shaw.

Again produced by the Lebanon Valley Woolsies, state Dairy Princess Dotterer modeled the bi-color shaw made with wool from a Romney/border Leicster cross sheep.

It was auctioned by Harry Bachman, an Annville auctioneer who is a consistent supporter of local and state agricultural and livestock events, including the county agricultural youth programs, the Farm-City event and the Lebanon Area Fair.

It was purchased for $275 by Lebanon Valley Farmers Bank.

The event also includes a drawing for door prizes, which offered a dozen high value prizes and included the grand prize of a quilt.

While that normally would have concluded the event, a special presentation was made to Homan, who recently celebrated his 73rd birthday.

Bachman said that while it was known that Henry always wanted a cocker spaniel, they offered a similar-sized animal to him in hopes that it would fill the void.

An obviously stunned Homan received a young pig, and after a break in laughter from the audience, he asked if he was really supposed to take it with him.

Instead, he made a gift of it to Gabe Svonavec, brother of Heidi Svonavec, who, for commodity promotional effect, attended the event dressed as a lamb. Gabe said he would take it home to raise as a pet.

Fisher To Market Trade Credit Program

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) - Gery J. Fisher, vice president of credit for Keystone Farm Credit, has been named relationship manager for AgSmart, a new nationwide trade credit program introduced this year by the Farm Credit System.

Ag Smart was created to provide agribusinesses with a competitive, service-focused advantage in trade credit financing. AgSmart provides equipment loads and leases, revolving credit loans with an AgSmart credit card, and operating loans through agribusinesses to their customers, right at the point-of-sale.

AgSmart can serve a broad set of agribusinesses including implement, equipment, pesticide, fertilizer, seed, feed, and a variety of other ag suppliers, With AgSmart, agribusinesses can generate point-of-sale credit loans and leases in a cost-effective manner, enhance their level of customer service, and position themselves as leaders in providing value in the marketplace.

In his new position, Fisher will be responsible for marketing the AgSmart program to agribusiness suppliers and dealers in 16 counties in southeastern Pennsylvania.

Gery J. Fisher

A former resident of Oley, now residing in Reading, Fisher received his bachelor of science degree in horticulture from Delaware Valley College in 1970.

PENNSTATE College of Agricultural Sciences

From the Department of Dairy and Animal Science

This regular column from Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science features the research findings, student opportunities, and reports on other important topics generated in the Department. Watch for notice when back issues of the column are archived on Lancaster Farming's Internet www.lancaster farming.com home page.

PENN STATE STUDENTS TOUR, LEARN ABOUT AGRIBUSINESS

Introducing Penn State students to the many emerging career opportunities in the dairy, livestock, and poultry industries is an increasing challenge. The Department of Poultry Science and the Department of Dairy and Animal Science have found an unusual teaching tool: a 40-passenger excursion bus.

The two departments sponsored the first Student/Faculty Industry Tour for 36 undergraduate and graduate students, featuring six farms and companies in southeastern Pennsylvania that reflect the diversity and variety of occupations that exist in agriculture. Terry Etherton, head of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science, says the unorthodox tour is the perfect way to let students see the many career opportunities open to them.

"It's vitally important for students to see the broad spectrum of options available in animal agriculture," he explains. "It can influence their decisions on a course of study. Students need to recognize that jobs in animal agriculture span the spectrum from the family farm to laboratory scientists conducting molecular biology research.

On this bus tour, they saw several representative companies and farms in one trip, and could ask questions. It was a terrific real-world experience!"

Incoming freshmen, students new to Penn State's University Park Campus (from other campuses and other universities) and graduate students joined faculty chaperones on the two-day excursion. The tour included stops at Leidy's, Inc, a swine packing and processing business in Souderton; the Toxicology Department of Merck Research Laboratories, a pharmaceutical research firm near Philadelphia; egg-processing facilities at Kreider Poultry Farms in Manheim; and the 400-acre Hershey Brothers Dairy in Manheim.

They also visited the 850-head-capacity Nissley Brothers Beef Feedlot in Mount Joy and the Hanover Shoe Farms, Inc. of Hanover, a pre-eminent Standardbred horsebreeding facility for more than 60 years.

"Agriculture is a huge industry with vast employment opportunities, and this tour provided students with an overview of six diverse enterprises," explains Erskine Cash, professor of animal science and tour coordinator. "The tour enhanced their awareness of the industry and encouraged informal interactions with students and faculty."

For Tiffany Turrentine, a first-year student from Philadelphia now studying at Penn State Berks, the tour allowed her to see first-hand many of the systems and processes described in her high school textbooks.

"I was really interested in the places that we went to, like the Merck Labs," she relates. "Some of the lab work that they showed us I had learned about in high school, and it's what I want to study in college. Merck is looking for Penn State students for full-time employment, and if I hadnít participated in the tour, I would never have learned that."

As a native of Edmonton, Canada, doctoral candidate Paul Kononoff got an extra benefit from the tour: as he was discovering the state's animal science industries, he also was getting his first look at much of the landscape.

"It's definitely a lot more rolling than the Canadian prairies that I'm used to," he says. "The trees and mountains are quite lovely, and the farms are more picturesque. Where I'm from, there are lots of beef cattle -- it's not unusual to see 10,000 head on a facility -- but the dairy operations are smaller. Here, it's flip-flopped: feedlots may only be 100-200 head, but the dairy operations are ten-fold what I'm used to."

Kononoff says he was impressed by the enthusiasm and innovation that he encountered on the tour, and came away with a renewed sense of the "tremendous opportunities" available in animal agriculture. He even got new ideas for his advanced research into dairy nutrition. But the best aspect of the trip, he says, was the opportunity to rub elbows with faculty, fellow graduate students and undergraduates outside of the classroom.

"I got a snapshot of Pennsylvania agriculture, and I got to know faculty away from the academic environment," he says "It was a good time to get to know them as people. I also got a better understanding of the needs of the farmers from the perspective of a researcher. I'm not familiar with the way that agriculture is done here, and I now see that I can bring expertise and fresh ideas from a different part of the world and blend them with what I'm learning here."

Etherton says that the two departments plan to make the tour an annual event, visiting facilities in every part of the state on a rotating basis. The tour was supported by grants from PennAg Industries, the Pennsylvania Beef Council, the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, Turkey Hill Dairy, and the participating departments.

concern, especially the way the proposed Unified Strategy would determine which farms are to be considered for mandatory comprehensive nutrient management planning approved by the federal government.

"There may be some merit to using animal numbers as (a determining threshhold for consideration for mandatory planning) as CAFOs are calculated, rather than using the density as we do in Pennsylvania (average annualized animal weights per acre suitable to receive manure nutrients)," he offered.

"But it appears that using an oversimplified, inaccurate, unrepresentative, inflexible method of determining animal units is a step backwards from the system used here in Pennsylvania, called the Animal Equivalent Units (AEUs)," Robinson said.

"(Pennsylvania's) system has been recognized by EPA as being much more accurate than their method," he said. "The excuse (for using the federal method) that it's the same all over the country gives little comfort when the plans are to consider revisions in a few years, adding more confusion.

"Why not start right the first time?"

Robinson also questioned the wisdom of using water quality monitoring data in a watershed as an indicator of whether all farms in that watershed should be considered a CAFO and be required to have permitting and additional restrictions.

He further questioned the use of fertilizer sales in the county as a source of data for farm-fertilizer use.

For watershed monitoring data indicating high nutrient flows, he explained that sources of nutrients are not known just by testing water levels, and that just because the drainage of a watershed indicates nutrient pollution, there are many other potential sources that should be considered, not just farms.

He said the federal proposal also seems to put small farms at higher risk of failure because of extra, unecessary costs. The result could easily be to encourage the development of large, concentrated animal operations.

Another speaker was Douglas Goodlander, on behalf of Pennsylvania's State Conservation Commission (SCC), which currently oversees Pennsylvania's nutrient management laws and enforcement with help from both the state Department of Environmental Protection and the state Department of Agriculture.

He said the SCC is still reviewing the proposal and will provide formal written comments before the Jan. 19 deadline.

"Our general comments include that the commission is pleased with the general direction of the AFO strategy initiative, in that it specifically focuses regulatory activities on operations thought to have a high pollution potential.

"It relies on a voluntary incentives-based approach to encourage the remainder of farmers to implement nutrient management plans," he said.

"This is similar to Pennsylvania's nutrient management program ...," he said.

He also said that the philosophies of the programs are somewhat similar, although:

• Pennsylvania's mandatory planning requirements differ markedly from the federal proposal in that the federal government wants to include animal feeding as part of the overall plan, and Pennsylvania's planning doesn't go so far as to restrict a farmer to feeding according to an inflexible plan;

• Pennsylvania has been a leader in working toward developing better feeding programs to reduce manure escapes of nutrients (they cost money and if they aren't used by the animal they cost more money and detract from profits.)

Also, he said that the SCC doesn't believe that the Unified Strategy's reliance of existing programs that provide cost-sharing funds for farms to implement environmental management practices and devices is well-considered.

(The Strategy more or less broadly suggests that funds from existing federal programs could be diverted and earmarked for the national nutrient management strategy.)

"We do not believe that (USDA's) EQIP (Environmental Quality Incentive Program) and other federal funding programs at their current funding levels will provide adequate resources to

QUESTION: Our cows' milk average dropped severly when we started the new high moisture corn last month and we cannot turn it around. Is there something you could suggest to help us?

ANSWER: A while back, I happened to be in the area where this herd is located. I decided to take the opportunity to talk with the family, look at the cows, and put information from their DHIA reports into the barn to see if anything can be done to help a 43-pound average.

The DHIA reports told the same story as the dairyman. Production was off by close to 20 pounds.

Herd summary I showed that normally the herd drops during this time of year, compared to May and June, but this year the drop was more severe.

Past records indicate the cows should be milking 50 to 55 pounds, although the dairyman would like 60 to 65 pounds, like production in early summer.

Casual observations were made as we made our way around the barn.

Cows were in very good condition. Many cows were standing while chewing their cud. Air quality was decent. The cow comfort was above average as noted by no blemishes on hocks and several cows got up, demonstrating ease at doing so.

The one thing that bothered me was, upon watching several cows drop manure, large amounts of yellow corn specks were seen.

When we looked at the high moisture corn, it was apparent that this was the source of the specks.

The new corn was put in very dry and had little fermented smell.

It was processed by a roller mill coming out of the silo and contained a fair amount of cob, retained by the combine.

The first change we discussed was to tighten down the rolls as much as possible so the corn would become feed instead of manure fortifier.

This change should make more feed available for milk.

We next looked at the MUN report. The average was 11.1. This is in the middle of the range and could easily be overlooked as being okay.

I like to look a little further at this report and see what makes that average.

A potential problem was noted in that most cows in early lactation made up the lowest MUN values that were part of that average.

We also saw that the very highest MUN was 14.2. Sometimes in low producing cows, we have this very narrow MUN range. During early lactation, it is rare not to find any cows with MUN values at 16 to 20.

A question was raised about adequate protein in early lactation cows. We looked at other parameters dealing with this question and saw that cows were not peaking at all.

Herd summary II showed 41 days to peak.

In other words, first test day is the highest and goes down from there.

Again we think of protein in early lactation.

The nutritionist will be asked about increasing the ratio of degradable protein to carbohydrate especially in those early cows.

We now talked about the feed with emphasis on the forage portion. The family is aware of the low quality of the haylage that is currently being fed. We talked about plans to overcome this problem. Substituting a small quantity of good forage for poor will pay big dividends.

Time will tell if we are successful at raising production. The essential thing to remember is that we used DHIA records in several capacities.

Number one, we looked at past performance to set realistic goals.

Number two, we got past blaming the feed man and got on to solving the problem.

Number three, we pinpointed some areas of concern in our feeding program.

Number four, the best approach at problem solving is level thinking by all members of the team.

Will the herd get to the 60-pound average of a few months ago? Probably not.

Can we make some low cost changes to increase production? I feel certain that we can, and I believe the best way to reach higher production goals is to plan now to eliminate the factors leading to low production.

York DHIA Honors Retiring Technician

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

THOMASVILLE (York Co.) – Marianne Walter, retiring after 20 years of service to York County dairy farmers as a technician, was honored during the annual DHIA honors program Nov. 19. She will officially retire on Dec. 31.

For her years of accomplished service, Marianne was presented with a lead crystal bowl and a York County shaped plaque commemorating her two decades with the DHIA program.

"I've often watched others receive these special plaques," she said of the county-shaped design in polished wood, "and it's really nice to be honored with one of them."

The veteran technician began her circuit of herd testing following the Walter family exiting the dairy farming business in 1978. She and her husband, Donald, had operated their dairy herd for 18 months, until the facility they were renting was leveled in a barn fire early in 1978.

"I needed something to do, so I started testing," she recalled.

Marianne took on a rigorous schedule, handling 27 herds on test monthly, nearly of them two-times testing.

"Now, most of them have gone to A.M.-P.M. testing," she said, explaining that it has resulted in a somewhat more flexible schedule for her more than two-dozen clients than during those first years of her DHIA career.

However, with herds testing at different times, and somewhat larger herds than in those earlier years, she still has had to plan carefully to keep her herd visits within their scheduled test-day time frame.

Through those two decades, she has rarely been late, frequently been honored by the state DHIA for her performance, and remained ever mindful of weather forecasts during the winter.

And, due to her watchful planning, while she occasionally became snowed-in at the family's Airville farm, whe was never "snowed out."

One of her more humorous memories of the visits with her test herds came more than 10 years ago, when she entered the milkhouse of dairy producers Gary and Gail Thoman and found their little daughter being bathed in the wash vat. The youngster had taken a tumble into the gutter, her dad had fished her out and plunked her into the handiest "bathtub" for a cleanup.

On another memorable occasion, Marianne came to the rescue of another dairy farm youngster. The toddler, about 18 months old, had backed up without realizing where he was. He, too, promptly took a tumble - backwards - into the gutter. Marianne quickly retrieved the little fellow from his messy landing. While his feelings were hurt, he was none the worse for the mishap, thanks to her quick retrieval.

While she said she will miss the friends she has made on her technician circuit, Marianne plans to become a more available assistant to Donald on their beef and crops farm, much of which is cropped to hay put up in small bales for marketing.

"And I plan to spend all summer in my garden," said the green-thumbed gardening enthusiast, smiling.

In fact, she is such a gardening enthusiast that she has been spotted pulling weeds out of clients' flower beds for them while waiting for the milking to begin.

The Walters have five children and five grandchildren. Marianne also looks forward in her retirement to having more time to enjoy with their family.

In recognition of 20 years service as a DHIA technician in York County, Marianne Walter receives a lead crystal bowl and a commemorative plaque.

implement this strategy," Goodlander said.

Furthermore, he said there were serious concerns from the SCC about a lack of "... technical assistance resources provided to the federal, state and local level."

Another problem is that the Unified Strategy is too vague in the details about what it would require of farmers.

"We are concerned that this strategy strongly relies on a proposed NRCS (USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service) comprehensive nutrient management plan standard or guidance document which has yet to be provided.

"We reviewed a draft of this proposed NRCS nutrient management standard several months ago and it raised numerous concern in our minds related to its practical application in Pennsylvania," Goodlander said.

"It is difficult for us to determine the feasibility of the proposed AFO strategy without seeing the technical criteria that are being proposed by the program to the NRCS comprehensive nutrient management standard or guidance document."

Goodlander said the commission is also concerned about whom will interpret the Strategy and determine which farms are to fall under federal comprehensive mandatory nutrient mandatory planning.

Vaccinations - Article 27

The second form of immunity is that which is acquired through vaccinations Because vaccines differ in the way they function, it is helpful to have some knowledge of vaccines and cows' immune systems

Immunization and vaccination can be very complex In the interest of trying to explain it as simply as possible, the information presented below may not be 100% technically correct When trying to understand immunization and vaccinations, it is convenient to think in two's because a lot of the things seem to happen in two's, as you will see below

- Cattle have two different immune systems

  They work independently of each other. Each system protects different parts of the animal's body and offers protection against different diseases and infections

  Both systems must function well for the cow to have good immunity

- There are two types of vaccines killed and modified live virus (MLV)

  Killed vaccines work effectively with only one of the cow's 2 immune systems, and generally are more effective against viral infections than bacterial infections

  Modified live vaccines can effectively stimulate both of the cow's 2 immune systems, and generally offer greater protection against viral and bacterial infections Because it is a live virus, it gives cattle a light touch of the disease Thus, it generally triggers a more severe response than killed vaccines, and can cause abortions

It takes 2 initial shots to stimulate an effective immune response The second shot is given 2 weeks to 2 months after the first The first shot "wakes up" the immune system so the second shot can "take hold" and offer lasting protection Once this immunity has been established, it can be maintained with periodic booster shots The two-shot setup and periodic booster shots are VERY IMPORTANT concepts to keep in mind when vaccinating animals

- Be sure you are actually getting good immunity with your "shots" and not just spending money for a false sense of security -- and getting little to no immunity!

- Review your health records to make sure all animals got the 2 setup shots initially This applies to calves, older heifers and cows, and to all new cattle coming into your herd from other farms, even though they have health charts and supposedly have had "all their shots"

- Vaccinate cattle only when they are healthy, not severely stressed Do not vaccinate 2 days before nor 5 days after calving
- Do not administer more than 2 bacterial vaccines at one time, it's too much stress on the animal and it may reduce the effectiveness of the vaccine A 3 or 5-way lepto vaccine is considered as one vaccine, but two additional bacterial vaccines in combination with lepto could be too much
- Some diseases to consider vaccinating for include BVD, IBR, BRSV PI3 Lepto Haemophilus coliform mastitis etc
- Store, administer and use vaccines as per label instructions
- Immunization is complex, so discuss these concerns with your veterinarian and design a vaccination program specific for your farm Do it right!

New IPM Video Available

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Why are more and more agricultural producers adopting Integrated Pest management, or IPM?

You can find the answer in a new video produced by the Pennsylvania IPM program, a collaboration between Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

"Why IPM?" explains that Integrated Pest Management is playing an increasingly important role for Pennsylvania's agricultural industry due to the loss of key pesticides, heightened awareness of worker safety, and enactment of the consumer- and environment-driven Food Quality Protection Act of 1996. The video focuses on IPM as an environmentally friendly, economically viable pest management program that reduces risk while improving crop consistency, yield and quality.

"Why IPM?" features testimonials from farmers and growers, including Dennis Spangler of New Berlin, Brooks Way of Way Fruit Farm and Steve Layser of Layser Greenhouses, as well as representatives of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry.

The video can be obtained by contacting any county office of Penn State Cooperative Extension, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture at (717) 772-5204 or the Pennsylvania IPM Program at (800) PENN-IPM.

ADA/DC Directors Approve 1999 Budget

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) – American Dairy Council Middle Atlantic (ADA/DC Middle Atlantic) Board of Directors voted unanimously to approve 1999 program plans and budget. During last week's annual budget meeting, ADA/DC unveiled aggressive plans to increase dairy product demand in the Middle Atlantic region.

In 1999, ADA/DC will extend Diary Management, Inc. (DMI) national programs to Middle Atlantic consumers. ADA/DC's plans to include more localized and extensive advertising, communications, and nutrition education programs building on DMI's plans. Both DMI and ADA/DC initiatives will primarily target children ages 3-12 and their moms.

To reach consumers locally, ADA/DC will develop regional food publicity campaigns such as a cheese carving contest in Harrisburg and a cheese recipe contest targeting Washington, D.C. chefs. More community-based nutrition marketing programs such as museum exhibits and pre-school puppet shows will target educators and health professionals. ADA/DC will also launch an extensive project to improve milk's position in the retail arena. Other plans include increasing support for dairy princesses and capitalizing in the long-term relationship milk has with Middle Atlantic baseball teams. Building on existing nutrition education and advertising projects, these plans create a more integrated checkoff program to increase dairy demand.

Board members commended ADA/DC staff for bringing the new organization's plans together so quickly after the merger.

Entertain With Ease And Style

Fay Strickler, Berks County Extension home economist, presents a Veggie Decorated Tree as an appetizer.

The punch bowl is often a place where guests gather during holiday entertaining. Make it an eyecatching centerpiece by placing the bowl inside a holiday wreath arranged with fresh fruit.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

Make holiday entertaining less stressful with some pre-party planning. Do as much as possible ahead of time.

How many guests will you invite? Will it be a sit down meal, a buffet, or dessert only?

Make a list of foods to prepare as well as dishes and utensils needed. How will you arrange the table?

Do shopping well in advance. Prepare as many dishes as possible in advance.

Remember, people tend to eat more when it's cold and drink more when it's hot.

A festive atmosphere can be induced by lighting lots of candles. Insert votive candles inside apples and oranges and set one at each place setting or group together in a bed of greens.

Don't limit your serving dishes to china and crystal. Serve dip in hollowed-out bell pepper cups or in a hollow-out bread round.

Unless otherwise marked, the following recipes and ideas are from Mary Nicholson, Marg Malehorn, and Carol Ulsh who taught a workshop at the Holiday Fest sponsored by five county extension offices, from Seasonal Surprises taught by Fay Strickler, Berks County home economist; and from Letie Schadler, Lebanon County extension home economist.

CITRUS BERRY CREAM PUNCH

2 packages (10 oz.) frozen strawberries in syrup, thawed
1 can apricot nectar or pineapple juice, chilled
1 quart each vanilla, strawberry ice cream
2-liter bottle ginger ale, chilled

Puree strawberries. In large punch bowl, combine puree and nectar. Before serving, top with scoops of ice cream. Add ginger ale. Garnish as desired. Serves 20.

CINNAMON APPLE FROSTY

16-ounces vanilla-flavored yogurt
6-ounce can frozen apple juice concentrate ⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
3 ice cubes

Place all ingredients in blender container; cover. Blend until smooth and frothy. Serve immediately in tall chilled glasses. Serves 3.

Audra Wood
Lancaster Co. Dairy Princess

(Turn to Page B6)

CHICKEN BAGELS

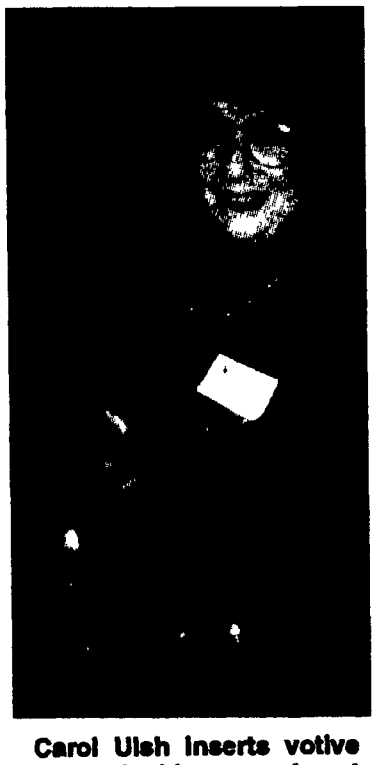
12 mini bagels
2 cups chicken salad
1 red onion
1 apple
Sliced almonds

Split mini bagels in half and toast. Top with your favorite chicken salad and sprinkle with finely chopped red onion. Top each bagel half with apple wedge or toasted sliced almonds.

Another version of the veggie pizza is Patchwork Veggie Pizza demonstrated by Mary Nicholson at the Holiday Fest, Harrisburg.



Carol Ulsh inserts votive candles inside carved out apples and oranges.

'No Fit' Gifts

"Pop this bath coverup over your child and snuggle or let them run," said Julie Wegelin. For more "no-fit" ideas, turn to page B3.

Holiday Projects Can Be 'Sew' Much Fun

READING (Berks Co.) — Need inexpensive gifts for the holidays?

Sewing expert Julie Wegelin has plenty to share. At a holiday workshop in Berks County, Julie showed an array of gifts to make from fabric remnants.

Some of her ideas are included below. If you would like more no-fit gifts to sew, order a copy of Julie Wegelin's book "No Fit Gifts on a Shoestring" with more than 40 ideas for quick inexpensive gifts for all occasions.

Each gift idea includes detailed material and tool lists, instructions with illustrations, and full size patterns.

Julie operates the Sewing Cellar, conducts sewing classes, has a television sewing program, designs patterns for wearable art clothing using novel fabric techniques and patchwork, and handcrafts collectable Wooden Nickel Teddy Bears. For more infomation, write to The Sewing Cellar, 945 N. Fourth St., Reading, PA 19601. Web site is www.sewingcellar.com.

Call (610) 376-3490 to order the book or send $12.50 plus $2 for shipping to Julie Wegelin's Sewing Cellar, 945 North Fourth St., Reading, PA 19601.

Here are some of her ideas.

Bathtowel For Children

Select bathtowel in desired size and fold into quarters. Cut neck opening to fit child's head. Take ribbing from bottom of old sweat shirt or use new ribbing. Fold ribbing ends together to make a ring. Fold with wrong sides together. Sew raw edge of ring to neck opening. For border, stitch strips of fabric to bottom edge.

Chill-Chasing Robe

One size fits all.

Materials:

2 yards polar fleece
2 cones thread
2 cones wooly nylon
12 jumbo snaps

Serge all four edges of fleece

Along short ends fold 1½ -inch towards the outside and topstitch along serging with regular machine stitch.

To form sleeve, install half of the snap 2½ -inches from upper fabric edge and the other half 28-inch from upper edge.

For lower front closure—install 5 snaps (below the second half of the first snap). Install first snap 1-inch below sleeve snaps. Install second snap 2-inches from bottom edge. Install third snap half way between first two. Fourth and fifth snaps should be centered between end snaps and middle snap.

Neck edge and upper closure, fold 1½ -inches along upper edge towards right side, sew close to serging. Install the remaining three snaps, seven inches apart, measuring from the sleeve edge.

Table Napkins

½ yard fabric = 2 napkins
2 cones regular thread
1 cone either wooly nylon for a more tailored look or Designer 6 rayon thread for a skinny edge.

Cut fabric into 18-inch square. It is a little tricky serging rolled corners. To make the job easier, round off the corners of the napkins (use a quarter as a template).

Set the serger for a rolled edge. Serge around the napkin. Use a double eye needle to hide the chain tail.

Press and fold.

If you do not have a serger, fringe the edges of the napkins by unraveling the edges of the fabric for about ½ -inch on each side.

Any Size Gift Bags

Scraps of fabric
Cord or ribbon to tie
4 cones thread
1 cone decorative thread
Rotary equipment

Determine the size of bag by measuring the size of the item the bag will be used for.

Measure the height and the width.

To make a bag 8-inch around 10-inches high, cut a rectangle 8x10-inches.

Tie: Cut a piece of ribbon 18-inches long or longer if desired.

Fold fabric in half with right sides together. Fold ribbon in half. Insert ribbon into side seam 3-inches from top of bag.

Sew down side and across bottom of bag.

Neck Warmer

14x24-inch scrap Polar fleece
1 cone thread
2 cones wooly nylon
2-inches velcro

Fold fabric in half, cut according to diagram.

Round lower corners.

Serge all edges with a balanced 3-thread stitch. Use wooly nylon in loppers.

Fold under 1-inch of upper tab. Sew half of Velcro to each tab using regular machine.

Christmas At Landis Valley

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) – Christmas at Landis Valley Museum will beheld 6 p.m.-8:30 p.m., Friday, Dec. 18. Admission is free.

Everyone is invited to join in caroling around the traditional giant bonfire, led by the moravian Trombone Choir. Cider and cookies will follow.

"Hi! My name is . . . and I'm the creator of the Furby!"

A split-second of silence. And then, the sound of a gunshot.

That's one of the laugh-getters being played during the goofy, early-morning show on the regional country radio station that plays during milking hours here in our dairy barn.

Having spent more time than usual helping with the milking chores lately, I've come to enjoy the wacky antics of the Group of DJs that host this particular show. They are some pretty off-the-wall stuff, sometimes — including the above, pretend, elimination of the creator of this year's must-have Christmas toy.

Though I abhor the violence suggested by the gunshot, the sentiments behind that particular piece play right into my personal feelings about society's obsession with the "hot holiday toy" that seems to crop up every year. Especially after reading that this year's fuzzy lump of electronic conversation was created specifically as chum bait for the annual toy-shopper frenzy.

By the way, whatever happened to all the Cabbage Patch dolls people were getting into fist fights over just a few years ago? And, where are all the Elmo's that giggled their way through the holidays last year?

I grow wearier every year of the crass commercialization of the Christmas season and the behavior of adults battling in retail aisles. Over toys, no less. Still, one has to wryly envy the marketing strategies which send the purveyors of this madness laughing all the way to the bank.

Thankfully, for the precious little people in our personal lives, holiday toy shopping is a far cry from battling crowds in the "grab at whatever cost" toy-line madness. In fact, The Farmer does much of the toy shopping for two little guys special to us. And loves every moment of it.

That's because, despite the fact that they reside in suburbia of one of the Northwest's largest cities, these two are happiest with all-time classics from the rural-kid-want-list.

Toy farm machinery. (Which is not just for kids anymore, as evidenced by the number of "big-kid" collectors).

One recent message from their mother related how a prior gift, a toy grain drill, was being used to plant — spaghetti. The Farmer hasn't figured out how to do that. Yet.

Since it takes packages several days to cross the country, especially pre-Christmas, I've had to reform from my usual last-minute shopping methods. And, by the time this column hits print, a box filled with goodies (including some farm equipment), should be westbound with some of Santa's postal service elves.

With the first grandson having a commendable line-up of miniature equipment, thanks to grandparents and parents with farming stuck in their blood, finding an lineup of different color for the second grandson has become The Farmer's personal quest. Thus, you can understand his smug sense of satisfaction last week when he stumbled across a particular piece of toy machinery he'd been searching for. At an equipment dealer who specializes in a competitive brand.

And at several dollars cheaper than he had seen it at yet another country retailer.

As a mother, now grandmother, toy buyer, I have always leaned toward classic, creativity/education-oriented stuff: books, games, artistic supplies like drawing materials, crayons, paints, clay. But, as part of a string of several generations of farmers, there was almost always some traditional toy farm equipment among our kids wrapped boxes. Some it it is still around, battered, bent and worn, but usually the first thing most visiting youngsters will grab to play with.

When the Cabbage Patches, the Elmos, the Furby's have been long forgotten, little kids will spend hours crawling around in piles of dirt, "farming" with toy tractors.

And thank goodness for that.

WHY BE SICK & TIRED
Most health problems are due to toxins in the body which hinder the immune system from fighting off diseases. Christmas Tree Selection

For many families, selection and purchase of a fresh tree is an annual tradition. Ever since the first tree lot was set up in New York City in 1851, many different species of Christmas trees are grown and sold in Pennsylvania.

Select a fresh, fragrant, and affordable Christmas tree this season. the two most popular ways to purchase a Christmas tree is at a retail lot or choose-and-cut-farm.

Retail lots are temporary lots set up in shopping centers, discount stores, service stations, fire halls and fairgrounds. On retail lots, check for tree freshness. Freshness greatly influences how well trees hold their needles and the fragrance they produce in your home.

Choose-and-Cut Farms, called tree plantations, provide Christmas trees right at the farm. Most farmers have areas of rows of trees marked for harvest. As a consumer, look at all the trees before selecting one to cut. The trees are cut and hauled out of the field for you. At many farms, it is possible to pre-tag a tree earlier in the season and then go out at Christmastime and harvest it.

Purchase a live, balled-and-burlapped Christmas tree for use in the landscape. Purchase living Christmas trees at retail lots, choose-and-cut farms, and may nurseries and garden centers.

Different spices of Christmas trees are normally sold in Pennsylvania. Popular tree species include Eastern White pine, Fraser Fir, Concolor Fir, Scotch Pine, Norway Spruce, White Spruce, Douglas Fir, Blue Spruce, Balsam Fir, Canaan Fir, Southwestern White Fir and others. These trees can be divided into two groups: short-needled, spruces and firs and the long-needled pines.

Each Christmas tree species has different growth characteristics. These include needle color, needle length, growth rate and shape. The ideal Christmas tree would have good needle-holding ability, an attractive color, a full bushy appearance, a conical symmetrical shape, a pleasing fragrance and branches sturdy enough to hold ornaments. Choose the right variety and size depending on where in the house the tree will be kept. Most standard rooms will easily accommodate a 7-foot tree; however, some rooms with cathedral ceilings can accommodate a much larger tree.

On may lots and farms, trees are priced according to height. Some sellers also offer table-top trees, which are relatively inexpensive and many be a good alternative for a small apartment, dorm room etc.

No matter what type of tree you select, purchase a tree that was recently cut. A fresh tree has a healthy, green appearance without a large number of dead or browning needles. Needles should appear fresh and flexible and should not come off in your hand if you gently stroke a branch. A useful trick is to lift a cut tree a couple of inches off the ground and let it drop on the cut butt. Green needles should not drop off the tree. A few dried, inner needles may fall, but certainly the outer, green needles should not be affected.

Popular Christmas Tree Type

Fraser Fir: Very soft needles, 1/2" to 1" long, shiny bright dark green above and silvery white below, very fragrant and popular, high priced.

White Spruce: Stiff needles, light blue-green in color, 1/3" to 3/4" long surrounding the twig, grows dense.

White Fir or Concolor fir: needles 1 1/2" to 2" long, soft needles vary from silvery-blue to silvery-green, citrus aroma.

Douglas-Fir: Not a true fir, needles 3/4" to 1 1/4" long, green to blue green, occur in two rows along the twig, very fragrant and popular, medium to high priced.

Scotch Pine: A two-needled pine with the twisted, stiff 2" to 2 1/2" needles, holds color well, dark green to blue-green needles, lower priced

Eastern White Pine: Needles are green to blue-green, 2" to 4" long in groups of 5, medium priced.

Survival Guide To Holiday Entertainment

PATCHWORK VEGGIE PIZZA

2 tubes (8-ounces) crescent rolls (may use reduced fat or pita bread
8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
¼ cup Italian salad dressing
1 cup finely chopped broccoli
1 cup finely chopped carrots
1 cup finely chopped cucumbers
1 cup chopped tomato

Unroll crescent dough and place on an ungreased baking sheet; press seams together to form a 15x12-inch rectangle. Bake at 375 degrees for 11-13 minutes or until browned; cool completely. Combine cream cheese and salad dressing; spread over crust to within one inch of edge. With a knife, mark off 20 squares. Fill each square with one vegetable to make a patchwork design. Refrigerate or serve immediately.

VEGGIE DECORATED TREE APPETIZER

2 (8-ounce cans refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
½ cup sour cream
1 teaspoon dried dillweed
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
3 cups finely chopped assorted vegetables such as bell peppers, broccoli, carrots, cucumber, and green onions

Remove dough from cans in rolled sections (two sections from each can) do not unroll. Cut each section into eight slices (16 slices from each can). Place slices, cut side down, on ungreased cookie sheets to form two trees.

To form each tree, start by placing one slice for top; arrange 2 slices just below, with sides touching. Continue arranging in a row of 3 slices, then a roll of 4 slices, ending with a row of 5 slices. Use the remaining slice for the trunk. Refrigerate one tree.

Bake one tree at 375 degrees for 11-13 minutes or until golden brown. Cool one minute; carefully loosen with spatual and slide onto wire rack to cool. Prepare second tree, bake and cool. Place each tree on a platter.

In small bowl, combine cream cheese, dill, and garlic powder; blend until smooth. Spread the mixture over both trees. Decorate the trees with assorted vegetable pieces. Garnish if desired. Refrigerate until serving time.

Yield: 2 trees; 32 appetizers.

BACON WRAPPED BREAD STICKS

1 package thin Italian bread sticks
1 pound bacon, room temperature
⅓ cup brown sugar, packed
¾ -1 teaspoon chili powder

Wrap bacon slices around bread sticks (diagonally like a barber pole). Mix brown sugar and chili powder on a piece of waxed paper. Roll bacon-wrapped bread sticks in sugar mixture. Lay on a rack in a baking pan, not touching. Bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes or until bacon is browned. Carefully remove to buttered foil (be very careful because the sticks are soft, they will harden as they cool). These will keep unrefrigerated overnight.

CUCUMBER CUPS

Cucumbers

Wash and peel cucumber. Slice into 1-inch slices. Carefully hollow out seeds in the center, being sure to leave ¼ -inch bottom in cucumber cups.

Chutney Almond Cheese Spread:
16-ounces cream cheese
½ cup chutney, chopped
2 teaspoons curry powder
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2-3 green onions, chopped

Mix together all ingredients. Pike or spoon cheese mixture into each cucumber cup.

PIZZA FONDUE

8-ounces lean ground beef
2 cloves garlic, minced
2½ cups pizza sauce
½ teaspoon dried basil
2 teaspoons dried organo
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese

For dipping: breadsticks and cubes of crusty French or Italina bread

Cook beef and garlic in large saucepan over medium heat until no longer pink. Drain off fat. Stir in pizza sauce and spices. Cook over medium heat until hot, but not boiling.

Combine cheese and stir into meat mixture until melted. Transfer to fondue to an enamel or ceramic fondue pot and keep warm over a fondue burner. Serve immediately. 16 servings.

Note: can also be prepared without meat for vegetarian dish.

American Dairy

BRIE IN PASTRY

Wedge of Brie cheese
1 cup apricot or raspberry Jam
1 package crescent rolls

Use ovenproof plate. Spread crescent roll to ¼ -inch thickness filling in holes with fingertips. Place wedge of cheese on pastry. Spoon jam over top of cheese to cover. Fold pastry completely around cheese and jam and seal. Bake in 375 degree oven until browned. Let set for 5 minutes. Serve with crackers.

SEAFOOD SPREAD

8-ounce package cream cheese
1 cup cocktail sauce or half salsa
2 (6-ounce) cans shrimp or crabmeat
2¼ -ounce can ripe olives, drained
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese
Finely chopped parsley or sliced green onions
4-5 drops hot pepper sauce (optional)
Assorted crackers or tortilla chips

Place softened cream cheese in 9-inch glass pie plate. Cover cheese with cocktail sauce or salsa. Add hot pepper sauce. Top with well-drained shrimp. Sprinkle with olives and cheeses. Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley and onions. Spread on assorted crackers or chips.

RED PEPPER-DILL SWISS FONDUE

1½ cups shredded Swiss cheese
1½ cups shredded Gruyere or Gouda cheese
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons plus 1½ teaspoons cornstarch
1 cup diced red pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup vegetable or chicken broth
1 cup milk
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons fresh dill, chopped or 2 teaspoons dried dill weed
⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg
Salt and ground white pepper to taste
For dipping:
Assorted filled ravioli prepared according to package directions, drained

In a medium-size bowl, toss the cheeses with the cornstarch.

In a medium-size heavy-bottomed saucepan, cook the red pepper in the butter over medium heat 2 to 3 minutes. Add the broth and milk, and heat until barely simmering. Stir in the lemon juice.

Add the cheese, a handful at a time, stirring until the cheese is melted before adding more. When all the cheese has been added, stir in the dill, nutmeg, salt, and pepper. Transfer fondue to an enamel or ceramic fondue pot and keep warm over a fondue burner. Serve immediately.

The Eyes Have It

Reality really sets in as a parent of a young child when you start to see your own behavior in your child's behavior.

Can any of you relate to that?

I'll never forget the day I corrected my oldest who was three at the time, at the supper table. Garrison tilted his head to the side a bit and looked right at me with a real stern prolonged stare. I had a hard time looking at him looking at me.

Quickly he said "Mommy look at me" and continued to give me the glare.

You know it's hard to discipline when those cute little eyes are looking back at you and it seems Garrison knew that too! He had learned that his eyes are a powerful communication tool.

Obviously I must do a fair amount of disciplining with my eyes without even saying a word. And, gee, how many times have I said to him, "Look at me when I'm communicating with you!"

Did you know that when speaking, our words only have a 7 percent impact on what message the listener receives. Nonverbal expressions account for 93 percent of the message the listener decodes. Truly our actions speak louder than words.

So you say, why is this important to me? Our degree of success in many roles in life such as spouse, employee, business person, employer, father, mother, child or friend depends on good communications. In this article today, we'll start to think about our body language and how we can develop an awareness of the importance of nonverbal behavior as you strive to continue building better relationships in our lives.

Let's begin by thinking about our facial expressions and eye contact. Ralph Waldo Emerson was quoted as saying "Eyes of men converse as much as their tongues, with the advantage that the ocular dialect needs no dictionary, but is understood the world over."

Facial expressions are the most readily observed group of gestures. Stop and think about common facial expressions you are familiar with. Many have a commonly accepted meaning At some time or another many of us have experienced a "look that could kill," an "I don't understand look," or an "I'm bored" expression.

What does the expression "poker face" mean to you? Universally people express and recognized four basic emotions: happiness, sadness, anger and disgust.

Do you know a spouse, relative or co-worker so well that you can tell how they feel about something you talk with them about without them even saying a word? At our house, Russell has this little thing he does with his eyes when I talk about doing something he doesn't agree with or necessarily want to do. He doesn't even realize he's doing it.

Our eyes are often a clue to thoughts and feelings the sender may be trying to hide. In normal conversations, you glance at a person for about a second and then glance away to show the speaker you are listening but not staring. If you avoid eye contact, it will probably be interpreted as a sign of low self-esteem, weakness or guilty feeling. A longer meeting of the eyes is uncommon, and therefore can have special importance, indicating anger, challenge or sexual attraction for example.

Research also indicates that people tend to maintain a higher degree of eye contact with those they believe will be approving or supportive of them.

Our experience with interpreting facial expressions starts very early in life. Babies at birth learn to begin interpreting expressions. Sustained mutual gaze between parent and child begins at four weeks of age. By six weeks of age, caregiver and child can play at making and breaking eye contact Research shows that babies are attracted to anything reassembling eyes

We focus our eyes on the face more often than on any other part of the body. That must be why many women spend lots of money on eye make up

Did you know that in order to initiate a conversation with someone, you need to first make eye contact?

If you don't believe me, try this little experiment at home or work. Try to initially start talking to someone without first having direct eye contact. It will seem awkward and it will appear that the other person isn't listening.

It's true we do listen with our eyes during conversations.

When someone talks to you, are you an active listener, maintaining quality eye contact? Or are you easily distracted seemingly disinterested?

Have fun this holiday season and take notice how you communicate with your eyes

'Tap' Into a Great Holiday Gift Idea

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co. ) – It's that time of year again, when parents everywhere go crazy with that long list of gizmos and designer-named clothing that children everywhere must have. If like many parents, you want to tuck something into that list which has meaning and long-term value, look no further than the Pennsylvania Tuition Account Program (TAP).

It is one gift that you and your child will thank you for in years to come. Sending children to college becomes a more expensive proposition every year. By opening a TAP account, you can purchase tomorrow's college tuition at today's prices.

Once established, anyone can contribute to the account–parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, even friends. And if anyone knows about the value of saving today for what you want tomorrow, grandparents do. Chances are, they would love to be included in contributing to a TAP account.

TAP differs from other savings plans in that the prepaid tuition credits are guaranteed to cover the tuition costs at the time the children are ready to go to college, no matter how much tuition increases. TAP tuition credits can be used at any college or technical school, public or private, anywhere in the United States.

To learn more about this unique program, call 1-800-440-4000, and ask for a free brochure entitled, "Important Facts to Consider When Joining TAP" Visit the TAP Website at www patap org.

Soybeans

Basic cooking instructions for dried soybeans. Rinse soybeans. Add them to 3 or 4 cups of water and boil for 3 hours. Now they are ready to use in recipes. Grind them up and add to many recipes or casseroles in place of some or all of meat. Grind them and put them in spaghetti, lasagna, and a pasta dish.

Soybeans With Tomatoes And Feta Cheese

2 cups cooked soybeans
2 tablespoons soybean oil
2 or 3 garlic cloves, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
1½ cups diced tomatoes
1 teaspoon dried dill weed
12-ounces feta cheese, crumbled
1 lemon, quartered
2 cups cooked rice

Saute the garlic and onion in oil. Add tomatoes, soybeans, and dill weed. Cook 10 minutes covered. Add Feta cheese and continue to cook until cheese is melted.

Serve over rice with lemon wedge.

Soybean Cherry Cupcakes

Yield 1 dozen.
1 cup cooked soybeans
1½ cups flour
1 cup sugar
⅔ cup soybean oil
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
1 cup candied cherries
1 cup chocolate chips
2 cups chopped pecans

Puree soybeans in food processor. Add all but cherries, chocolate, and pecans. Mix until smooth. Stir in cherries, chocolate, and pecans. Bake in cupcake pan at 325 degrees for 30 minutes.

Barbecue Soy Burgers

Yield: 4 servings.
2 cups cooked soybeans, drained
1 small onion, minced
2 garlic cloves, mashed
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons sesame seeds
½ cup fine bread crumbs
1 egg
Freshly ground black pepper to taste

In a small pan, saute onion and garlic in butter and cook until translucent. Set aside. In food processor, whirl beans, bread crumbs, egg, soy sauce, and sesame seeds to a coarse meal. Transfer to a medium bowl, add garlic-onion mixture and black pepper, and mix well.

Shape into four patties. Heat on grill until brown, giving them about 5 minutes on each side.

Serve with a good sauce.

Baked Soybeans

2 cups soybeans, cooked, drained, rinsed
¾ cup water
¼ cup brown sugar
½ cup molasses
2 tablespoons mustard
½ cup barbecue sauce
½ cup onions, chopped
¼ cup ketchup or to taste

Place all ingredients in a baking dish. Mix to combine. Cover. Place in 350 degree oven for 45 minutes. Remove lid and bake for another 30 to 45 minutes.

HOT CRANBERRY CITRUS PUNCH

3 lemons
3 oranges
2½ cups water
½ cup sugar
2 sticks cinnamon
20 whole cloves
32-ounces cranberry juice cocktail
1 cup orange juice
½ cup lemon juice

In a large saucepan, combine water, sugar, and spices. Bring to a boil; simmer for 5 minutes. Add the remaining ingredients; heat.

For garnish, float clove-studded orange or lemon slices in punch, if desired. Makes about 8 cups.

CRANBERRY CIDER

1 gallon cranberry juice
1 gallon apple cider
12 whole cloves
Cinnamon sticks

CHEESE BALL

2 pounds Velveeta cheese
3-4-ounces blue cheese
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Dried parsley
Paprika

STUFFED MUSHROOM CAPS

24 large fresh mushrooms
6 tablespoons butter
¾ cup plain dry bread crumbs
1 envelope dry onion soup mix
½ cup sliced almonds
¼ cup shredded parmesan cheese

Remove stems from mushrooms and finely chop; set caps aside. In a skillet, saute chopped mushrooms in butter until tender, about 6-8 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in bread crumbs, soup mix, and almonds. Stuff firmly into mushroom caps. Place in a greased 15x10x1-inch baking pan; sprinkle with cheese. Bake, uncovered, at 425 degrees for 12-15 minutes or until tender.

ROLLED HAM SLICES

6-8 slices luncheon baked ham, thickly cut
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
Dill pickle spears

Carefully spread ham slices with softened cream cheese. Lay a pickle spear along the short side and roll up.

Refrigerate several hours. Cut each roll into 4-5 pieces.

Holiday Party Tray

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — During the holidays through Super Bowl Sunday many families host parties or an open house that feature buffets or an array of party platters.

Party trays are a favorite of hostesses because they're simple to prepare or arrange for ahead of time. But even if you order platters from a deli, Cathy Hostetler, Penn State Cooperative Extension, reminds you not to forget food safety rules.

When you pick up the platter, make sure it's the last errand on your list. You don't want to leave the platter in a parked car. Even on a winter day the interior of a car could warm to above 40°F. When you get home, refrigerate the platters immediately at 40°F or lower.

If you make your own party trays, observe all the "use by" dates on package of meats and cheese. Keep the tray covered in the refrigerator so it doesn't dry out.

It's not safe to refill half-empty trays that have been out at room temperature for an hour or so. Instead, prepare several trays ahead of time. These back-up trays can be kept refrigerated until they are served. When you need to replenish food, a fresh full platter will be waiting.

To avoid serving food poisoning to guests, Penn State Cooperative Extension recommends you follow these basic rules of safety;

- Don't allow foods to remain at room temperature for more than two hours.
- Keep cold foods cold, below 40°F. To do this, place serving dishes on ice or replace the food about every 30 minutes.
- Keep hot foods hot, above 140° — use a crock pot, electric skillet, warming tray, or chafing dish. Check the temperature of hot or cold food occasionally with an inexpensive, instant-read thermometer. Don't refill trays, let most of the food be eaten, then bring out a fresh platter. In other words, don't add fresh food to a tray that has old picked-over food on it.
- Finally, as a guest at a party where vegetable, fruit, or cracker dips are being served, don't use dips from bowls that don't have a serving spoon. Other guests are likely to have dunked a half-eaten morsel into the dip.

Whether you are a host or a guest, don't be a party to food-borne illness.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Kiddin' Around Goat Club

York County's 4-H Kiddin' Around 4-H Goat Club recently elected new officers. They are Heidi Appel, president; Emily Deardorff, vice president; Vanessa Yanavitch, secretary; Chis Parsons, treasurer; Sarah Deardorff, reporter; and Lyndsey Hoover, historian.

The club has 20 members ranging from 8-17 years of age. The club comprises all breeds.

The club is starting up a pack-goat class for the 1999 project year. They have the dairy classes, goat-cart classes, and the meat goat class (wethers are raised and sold at the York Fair).

The club is drawing up a 1999 calendar.

Club meetings are conducted the first Tuesday each month at 7 p.m. at the 4-H Center located at Bair Station. New members are welcome to have fun by learning about goats.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Violet Cassner, Newburg, wanted a recipe for fruitcake made with grape jelly, orange juice, dates, and lots of other fruits. Thanks to Laura McKinney, for sending an old recipe. It takes a lot of time, but it's worth it, she writes.

Dark Fruit Cake
Makes 5 pounds

1 cup seeded raisins
1 cup seedless raisins
1 cup currants
3-ounces candied lemon peel, chopped
3-ounces candied orange peel, chopped
8-ounces cherries, sliced
8-ounces pineapple, sliced
8-ounces citron, sliced
5-ounces pecans, chopped
5-ounces almonds, chopped
⅓ cup flour for dredging
1⅓ cup flour for mixing
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon mace
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
⅔ cup butter
⅔ cup brown sugar, packed
4 eggs, separated
⅓ cup molasses
3 tablespoons fruit juice
3 tablespoons brandy or cider
⅔ cup jelly, any flavor

Prepare fruits and nuts. Dredge with flour. Sift mixing flour, measure, add baking soda and spices and sift again.

Cream butter, add sugar gradually cream together until light and fluffy. Add well beaten egg yolks, beat well. Add molasses, fruit juice, brandy or cider, and jelly; blend thoroughly.

Add fruits and nuts. Bake in 250 degree oven for 1½ hours. While still warm, brush tops and sides with brown sugar glaze.

ANSWER — For Randy Yerger and Linda Fauth, here is a recipe from Mrs. James Zimmerman.

Spice Jerky

2 pounds very lean meat (beef, deer, or elk)
1½ teaspoons seasoned salt
1½ teaspoons onion powder
½ teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ cup soy sauce
½ cup worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients. Add meat (which has been cut into thin strips). Marinate overnight in refrigerator. Dry over oven racks, hanging strips over toothpicks. Have oven at lowest setting. Put foil on bottom rack. Prop oven door open slightly to let moisture out. Takes about a day to dry.

Most people in the United States have seen snow firsthand But did you know that snow is actually ice crystals that you can see through? These crystals form around dust and other small particles that are in the air

Partly melted crystals cling together and form six-sided snowflakes as they fall from cold clouds through warmer air to the earth Because the crystals have many reflecting surfaces, they appear to be white in color

No two snow crystals are alike They are different from each other in their size, lacy structure and the marks on their surfaces Most snowflakes are about one-half inch wide, but under the right weather conditions, they can end up being about two inches wide

Did you know that Rochester, New York, is the snowiest large city in America? It has an average of 94 inches of snow each year, according to the National Weather Service

The next time it's snowing, before you start building a snowman or throwing snowballs, stop and take a look at a single snowflake Each one has a beautiful pattern all its own

WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK

Why do gorillas beat their chest?

Chest-beating, noisy gorillas might seem angry and mean But they're really shy and timid animals

Scientists have gone into the jungle to watch these gorillas in their natural setting. They found that, although gorillas are a relatively quiet animal, they hoot, rumble, laugh, belch and grunt to communicate. Because families can't always see each other as they search for food in the dense rainforest, sound helps them keep tabs on each other. The scientists also discovered the gorillas communicate visually: yawning, tucking in their lips and sticking out their tongues all mean different things.

Gorillas beat their chest when they are threatened. The stocky, male gorilla will hoot, stand up on his hind legs and throw grass, leaves or branches He'll then pound his chest with his palms He may kick, run from side to side and tear up grass or break branches When he's done, he'll thump the ground with his palms The whole display looks really frightening, especially given the size of a mature male gorilla. But instead of encouraging a fight, scientists think it's a ploy to give the other gorillas time to escape, and to scare off the trespasser.

All gorillas also beat their chests when they want to play. They look very different, though. Their bodies are relaxed, their faces have "play faces," and they might even touch each other like they are playing tag.

So, the next time you see gorillas pounding their chests at the zoo — or if you're lucky enough to see them in the wilds of Africa — you'll know the show is either because you're on their turf, or they just want to romp!

Scientifically yours, Twig

Culinary Delights To Rescue Diabetics

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — "Cooking should be fun. Eating should be delightful, The memory should be divine," is Coleen Howard's adage.

That, she said, pertains to desserts for the diabetics.

"Diabetics are among the world's most finicky eaters. Ask a diabetic what they crave the most and they'll say "candy and desserts," Coleen said.

This time of the year in particular can be extremely frustrating to those who must watch their sugar intake.

In answer to diabetics who want to feed their cravings, Colleen has compiled a cookbook, "The Diabetic Dessert Cookbook," which features simple, easy to make recipes without sugars, fats, and sodium.

Eliminating sugars, fats, and sodium sounds a bit bland, but the 210-page book includes such goodies as truffles, candy canes, bon bons, and much more.

Coleen is a nutrition consultant who lectures, writes articles, and has appeared on numerous television and radio shows. She produced "The Diabetic Dessert Cookbook" after her husband was diagnosed with diabetes.

Another wonderful source of diabetic recipes is "Cinnamon Hearts," a nationally recognized, award-winning culinary newsletter filled with holiday recipes for diabetics.

Marilyn Helton, who edits the newsletter said that 15.7 million Americans are diagnosed with diabetes and another estimated 5.4 million are unaware they already have the disease.

"Being diagnosed with diabetes does not have to be a culinary death sentence," said Marilyn. Each isse of the newsletter includes 25 to 35 recipes.

If you want a subscription to "Cinnamon Hearts—The Art of Living a Winning Diabetic Lifestyle," send $19.80 for a year's subscription OR $4 for a sample copy to Cinnamon Hearts DLE, P.O. Box 758340, Modesto, CA 95357-8340.

"The Diabetic Dessert Cookbook" is available in bookstores or from The American Diabetes Association for $11.

To the rescue for your holiday diabetic needs are the following recipes, which appear in these two different publications.

Coleen Howard wrote "The Diabetic Dessert Cookbook."

TRUFFLES

4 cups carob
⅛ teaspoon artificial sweetener
1 teaspoon powdered instant coffee
1 cup finely chopped peanuts

Melt carob in double boiler. Add artificial sweetener to melted carob and stir well. You may use molds for fancy-shaped truffles or place mixture in a bowl to cool. When cool enough to form a ball, form into one-inch diameter balls and roll in either instant coffee or chopped peanuts (not both). Place on waxed paper. Palce truffles in refrigerator for 20 minutes to set. Yield. 90 pieces. Per piece: calories 57.2; carbohydrates 5.88 g; cholesterol .806 mg; fat 3.02 g; fiber .112 g; protein 1.88 g; and sodium .097 mg.

CRANBERRY DROPS

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
¾ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 egg
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup chopped walnuts
2½ cups chopped cranberries

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Spray cookie sheets with non-stick vegetable spray. Cream together butter, sugar, and brown sugar. Beat in milk, orange juice, and egg.

In separate bowl, stir together flour, baking powder, cinnamon, salt, and baking soda. Blend well with sugar mixture. Stir in walnuts and cranberry pieces. Drop dough by teaspoonfuls onto cookie baking sheet. Bake for 10-15 minutes or until lightly browned.

Makes about 7 dozen cookies. Per cookie: 54 cal; 2 g fat 1 g protein; 8 g carb; 6 mg cholesterol; 4 g sugar; 36 mg sodium.

Temporary Discomfort Prevents Permanent Pain

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Baby shots carry a certain amount of trepidation for young mothers. They hate to see the pain a child feels from the needle. They fear the side effects from the immunization.

But a child's temporary discomfort is nothing compared to the excruciating pain of actually contracting diseases such as tetanus, diptheria, rubella, pertussia, and other diseases for which immunizations are available.

Recently, slides and video recordings of children suffering from these diseases were shown to health care professionals attending the Lancaster County Immunization Coalition banquet at the Ballroom at Doneckers, Ephrata.

"There are many heart-rending stories of babies and children who die or are permanently damaged because they were not immunized," said Norine Mountcastle, coordinator at the Lancaster office of the State Department of Health.

"While vaccination rates are at an all-time high in the county, there are still too many children who have not had the state required immunizations," Mountcastle said.

According to Dr. Alan Peterson of Lancaster General Hospital, part of the reason that some children are not immunized is because many parents have never seen children suffering from polio, tetanus, and other serious illnesses.

He has.

He spoke of the heartbreaking sorrow of watching a child die from lockjaw because the child had not been immunized.

To watch the excruciating pain children endure from tetanus and other diseases that are completely preventable is unexcusable according to Peterson.

Baby shots are also called immunizations. Immunizations are due at two, four, six, and 12 to 15 months.

Immunizations (baby shots) can protect your child against the following diseases:

• Pertussis — also called whooping cough, which is a serious disease of the lungs, nose, and throat. Ranks high as an infectious disease that causes infant death.

• Polio — the polio virus can cause crippling and paralysis to any part of the body.

• Measles — The virus that causes measles can cause ear infections, pneumonia, damage to the central nervous system, brain damage, and death.

• Rubella (German measles) — Usually mild in children, but babies born to women who contract Rubella while pregnant may have serious birth defects. Rebella also causes premature births.

• Mumps — The mumps virus causes swollen glands. Side effects can cause deafness and damage to the central nervous system, pancreas, kidneys, and thyroid gland It also causes sterility in teen-aged boys and men.

• Diphtheria — The diphteria virus can cause brain, nerve, heart damage, and even death.

• Tetanus — About half of the people who get tetanus die.

• Hepatitis B — The virus that causes hepatitis B can cause serious liver damage and liver cancer.

• Chickenpox — The chickenpox virus causes itchy red spots, fever, and sometimes death.

While some parents do not view chickenpox as a serious disease, Peterson disagrees. He said, "If you ever see a child with encephalitis from chicken pox, you would think immunization is a great idea for young children."

Peterson recommends the vaccine be given to children at 12 months of age.

• Haemophilus Influenzae (Hib) — The bacteria that causes Hib is the leading cause of menigitis in very young children.

Due to the immunization program, smallpox has been eliminated through the vaccination program. But Peterson fears that some diseases will again become a national health problem due to increasing travel between the U.S. and other nations. He said that diptheria is prevalent in Russia. With travel between the two countries being at an all time high, the risk of spreading diptheria in this country is higher.

Continual research is being done to eliminate other serious illnesses. Recently a lyme disease vaccine was approved, but it is not required for children at this point.

"The problem with the lyme disease vaccine its effectiveness is shortlived. In addition to lyme disease, eight to ten other diseases can be contracted from ticks.

Peterson also recommends that children receive flu shots. "It can decrease the severity of the illness and it saves parents' loss of dollars," he said.

Since 1983, Pennsylvania law has required that all children must be immunized against six diseases in order to attend school in Pennsylvania. Last year, the list of disease was expanded to include Hepatitis B.

Act 35 of 1992, the Childhood Immunization Insurance Act, provides that all childhood immunization vaccinations and booster shots must be covered by health insurance policies.

For those who do not have health insurance, immunizations are available free of charge at your local state health center. Ask your doctor where the nearest center to you is located.

Occasionally reports surface that immunizations can cause brain damage and death in some children.

"For the most part, no documentation supports brain damage can be attributed to the administration of vaccines," Mountcastle said.

Some children may have a reaction but most are mild. Low fever and redness and mild pain at the vaccination site are common reactions.

"Possible side effects from diseases that are vaccine preventable for the most part outweight any risk that the vaccine may cause," she said.

Rita Rhoads, who operates Birth Care and Family Health Services in Quarryville, is concerned that many children in Amish families do not receive all their immunizations.

Part of the reason, she said, is that government funding has been cut, which previously provided nurses to make house calls to Amish homes.

The Child Protect program schedules well baby shots in selected areas once every two months. Although the shots are free, recipients can only go to the selected sites or to the State Health Department, or hospitals at limited times.

"That means that an Amish mother must hire a driver. Because the Child Protect program is only at a selected site once every two months, it may hit a date when a child has a cold, or the peas need to be picked, or help with the harvest is needed. The date is often bypassed and time slips away."

Cathy Saunders, left, watches as her 5-year-old daughter Rachel Saunders' immunization is updated by Rita Rhoads of the Birth Care and Family Health Services, Quarryville. The clinic offers free immunizations to children who are uninsured or under insured. Rhoads is a firm believer that immunizations protect children from contagious diseases that can cause seizures, permanent brain and physical damage, and death.

Another reason some Amish mothers do not have their children immunized is because of tradition. Some say, "My mother didn't have me immunized."

"She couldn't. It wasn't available then," Rhoads responds.

Although some children who aren't immunized escape contracting the diseases, Rhoads said that possibility is much riskier in Lancaster County.

"We have a pocket of non-immunization here. Whooping cough makes a round in this area every winter," Rhoads said.

There was a rubella epidemic in this area about six years ago according to Rhoads.

While the risk to children is great, rubella to the unborn child is even more tramatic. Of 10 pregnant women, who were under Rhoads midwifery care at the time and who contracted rubella, two women miscarried, one baby was stillborn, two were born with hearing deficits, and two were mentally handicapped—all attributed to rubella.

When patients express fear of immunization side effects, Rhoads is emphatic that the greater risk is in not having the shots.

"Children are always worse off having the disease," she said.

In addition to the pain of these diseases, complications can cause seizures, brain damage, deafness and other physical handicaps, and death.

According to Rhoads, within the last two years a new form of petussis immunization is used in the county. Today it is extremely rare to have any reaction at all from the immunization.

Polio vaccine has also been updated. Previously it was estimated that less than one in a million contracted polio from immunization. Now children are given two shots. The first from a non live virus provides partial immunity for when the live vaccine is given.

According to law, children may be exempted from the immunization requirements only for medical reasons, religious reasons, or strong convictions in opposition to immunization. Such requests for exemption must be made in writing and accompanied by a physician's signed statement.

The cost of shots is expensive. If paying privately, the cost is more than $100 per child for each set of shots, according to Rhoads.

Child Protect requires hospitals and health departments to provide free immunizations to under-insured or non-insured children

Free immunizations are also given at the Birth Care & Family Health Services by appointment.

"Unlike other clinics, we insist that ears be examined before shots are given," Rhoads said of the effort to eliminate any smoldering illnesses that might flare up after the shot. Call (717) 786-4010 for an appointment with Rhoads.

For more information about immunizations, call your doctor or local state health center. Or call 1 800-986-KIDS.

Dr. Alan Peterson and Alice Yoder dicuss the Lancaster County Immunization Coalition's goal to have all children immunized for protection from contagious illnesses. Peterson said that if parents would see children suffer from these preventable diseases, they would be quick to have children immunized.

We have received numerous consumer calls on baking cookies. the following guidelines on "cookie basics" will help to answer many of your questions.

Ingredients:

*The flavor and texture of the cookies will be modified when interchanging butter, margarine, and shortening. If you wish to substitute, do so in equals amounts. When using margarine for baking holiday cookies be sure to select a brand that contains 10-11 grams of fat. Brands that contains less fat will cause the cookies to spread and often have unsatisfactory baking results.

•Use large eggs for baking.

•Don't substitute granulated sugar when a recipe calls for powered sugar.

•Only use synthetic sweeteners in recipes specifically developed for them or follow manufacturer amounts.

•If unsure about a substitution, the rule is don't do it.

•It's important to beat margarine and sugar until well creamed to help sugar start to dissolve and to incorporate air into the dough for a light cookie. Be sure stick margarine is softened before beating.

Baking:

•Preheat the oven so cookies are assured of uniform baking temperature.

•Use flat cookie sheets with low or no sides. High-sided pans prevent proper browning.

•Shiny baking sheets yield the most evenly baked and browned cookies. If using dark pans, reduce the oven temperature 25° to reduce the risk of burning.

•Use baking pans that fit your oven properly—allow 2 inches from their edge to each side of the oven. Substitute the back of any large pan for a cookie sheet.

Storage:

•Cool cookies thoroughly on a rack in single layers before storing.

•To keep cookies soft or chewy, store in an airtight container. To keep crunchy cookies from becoming limp, keep in a loosely covered container in a cool, dry place. To crisp softened cookies, heat them in a 300° oven for 5 minutes.

•Baked cookies can be stored in the refrigerator for up to 2 weeks or in the freezer for 9-12 months if wrapped in moisture and vaporproof plastic bags or containers.

•Many cookie doughs freeze nicely—refrigerator doughs as well as rolled and drop cookie doughs. Store in freezer containers up to 2 months. Thaw 3-6 hours in refrigerator. bake within 24 hours.

Q. When I bake cookies using my grandmother's recipe, they don't seem to taste the same nor do they have the same texture. What am I doing wrong?

A. Using old recipes often means "NOT" using modern measuring cups and spoons or adapting the recipe to obtain the same baking results, since Grandma often used a scale.

Here are a few of the more common ingredients and the conversions:

1 pound flower = 3 3/4 cups unsifted.

1 pound granulated sugar = 2 cups.

1 pound brown sugar = 2 1/2 cups firmly packed.

1 pound confectioners' sugar = about 4 cups unsifted.

1 pound butter = 2 Cups.

1 cup large eggs = 5 whole eggs, 8 whites, or 12 yolks.

1 pound dried fruit:

apricots = 3 to 4 cups
dates = 2 1/2 cups (60)
prunes = 2 1/2 cups (30 to 40)
Raisins = 2 1/2 cups seeded or 3 cups seedless

Juniata County Recognizes 4-H Leaders

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

PORT ROYAL (Juniata Co.) – 4-H Teens from Juniata County planned a recognition banquet in November to honor outstanding leaders and youth. 4-H Leader of the Year went to Dawn Stitely of Mifflintown. One of her What's Cookin' members presented the award.

The Juniata Tenn Leader of the year is nominated by peers. This year's recipient was David Peterson of Port Royal. According to the presenter, Peterson truly lived up to the title of team leaders by arranging meeting places, volunteering for committees, completing a meticulous project book, helping in all aspect of the 4-H exchange even though he couldn't participate, and committing to become an adult leader now in his last year of 4-H.

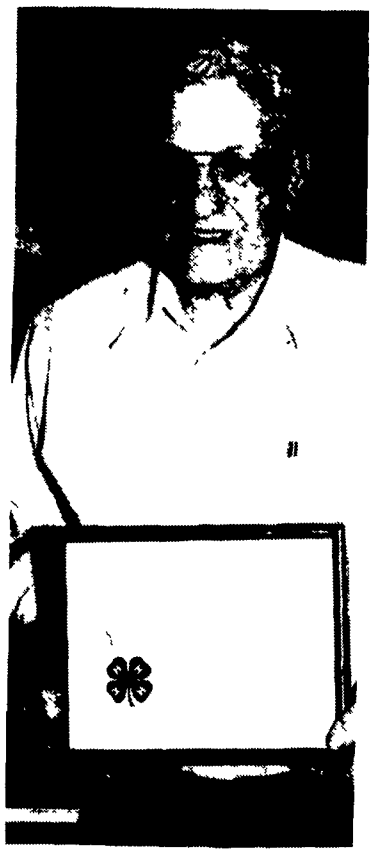
Casey Paffie of Spruce Hill earned the Outstanding 4-H'er Award. An active member of the Quilting Club for seven years, Paffie cooperatively finished all tasks even though active in many other clubs and organizations.

Donald Love of East Waterford received recognition for 35 years of service. Love, a dairyman, devoted countless hours to 4-H over the years. According to statistics, Pennsylvania has more than 10,000 adult 4-H leaders serve as positive role models for 125,000 youth ages 8 to 18. Studies show that 4-H leaders give more than 200 hours each year, an equivalent to an in-kind contribution of $20,000,000.

The Community Service Award went to the 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club for Operation Bear Lift, a program that supplies teddy bears to orphans in Russia The club offered a low-cost spayed and neutering clinic, participated in the American Cancer Society Relay for Life, and has trained 11 future seeing eye puppies. Kathy Queitzsch serves as leader.

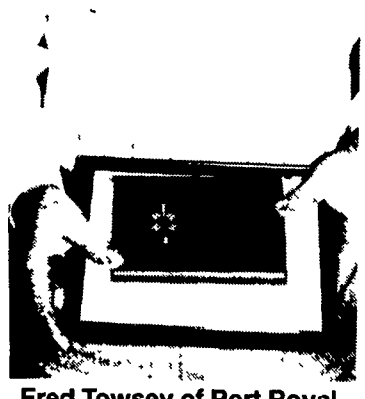
Port Royal resident Fred Towsey of the Turbett Grange No. 781 accepted the Friend of 4-H Award.

Best First Year 4-H'ers awards went to Katrina Dolan and Gretchen Wagner. An individual Cookie Sales Award went to Jennifer Gilbert. the What's Cookin' club earned the club cookie sales award.



Donald Love of East Waterford was recognized for 35 years of service to 4-H.

The 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club earned the Community Service Award. Members include, from left, Kelby Swartz of Port Royal with Kortney; Zach Swartz of Port Royal with Hugger; Fletcher Crimbring with Christina; and Kristen Crimbring of Port Royal.



Fred Towsey of Port Royal accepted the Friend of 4-H Award for the Turbett Grange No. 781.

Those receiving recognition at the Juniata County 4-H Leaders Recognition Banquet include Gretchen Wagner of Mifflintown (Best First year 4-H'ers, Casey Paffie of Spruce Hill (Outstanding 4-H'er), David Peterson of Port Royal (Teen Leader of the Year), Jennifer Gilbert of McAlisterville (Top Cookie Salesperson), Dawn Stitely of Mifflintown (4-H Leader of the Year), and, in front, Kara Williamson of Honey Grove (Cookie Sales).

Low-Fat Cheese

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Low-fat and no-fat food products are in, but not when it comes to cheese. While nonfat (skim) milk consumption continues to increase, reduced-fat and non-fat cheese consumption is flat or declining, according to Dairy Management Inc.™ (DMI) which represents dairy farmers throughout the nation.

Dairy farmer-funded consumer research explains why. Consumers want food that tastes good and is good for them. While reduced-fat cheese offers benefits from a healthy-eating standpoint, the taste and texture haven't been able to compare to those of full-fat cheese. That's why dairy farmers are funding research to improve the flavor, texture, and other characteristics of lower fat cheeses.

"If we don't meet the consumer's need for low-fat dairy products, we lose that opportunity to sell because many fat-conscious consumers turn away from dairy altogether," said Bill Haines, vice president of Business-to-Business Marketing. "What makes this a real win-win for the dairy farmer is that much of the research applied to improving low-fat and reduced-fat cheese manufacturing can be applied to improving the taste and usage of full-fat cheeses as well."

Emphasis on improving all cheese products couldn't come at a better time. Nutritionists and consumers are becoming more aware of the health-promoting properties of cheese and whey components, such as conjugated lineolic acid or CLA.

"CLA has been shown to be beneficial to fighting cancer and heart disease. Both cheese and whey are excellent sources of it," explained Haines. Other cheese research efforts are improving manufacturing techniques and protecting the safety and quality.

Winners at the annual Lancaster 4-H Dairy Meeting are from left, front, Neal Hershey, Ronks, best record book, 8-10 years; Esther Trimble, Drumore, runner-up record book, 8-10 years; and Josiah Garber, Lancaster, best 4-H story. Back, Joshua Akers, Quarryville, runnerup record book, 11-13 years; Andrew Smith, Denver, best project book, 11-13 years; Sarah Boyd, Ephrata, best project book, 14-18 years; Lori Hess, Pequea, runnerup, 4-H record book, 11-13 years and winner of the 4-H dairy skillathon; and Brian Smith, Denver, runnerup, 4-H project book, 14-18 years.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Now that the leaves are off of the trees our world looks different. We can see our neighbor's houses and the children hopping on the school bus in the morning. The trucks rolling by on the nearby highway seem more noisy than usual as all of the corn has been harvested between us and the road.

Even in our own yard, I am seeing things that I did not see this summer. There is a little nest in the forsythia bush against our front porch and another one in the small dogwood tree by the mailbox. All of the trees except the oak have lost their leaves. We've carried the rocking chairs off the porch and stored them for the winter. The glider cushions have been washed and the glider too will spend time in the basement.

Recently, we have had our evergreens trimmed by a church group that expects to make wreaths. This year our bushes of holly are red with berries. That is not always the case as some years they only have a few berries. So, many people will be able to enjoy them this year.

My husband has been spending a lot of time outdoors due to the mild weather. He has split piles of wood, which remained after lumbering our woods last winter. He has a wood splitter on a tractor to help him get the job done. But, he did manage to get his finger in the wrong place and will lose a black fingernail.

As the silos are full, he made a temporary corn crib with pieces of wire fence that previously surrounded the calf hutches. Our son is now boarding heifers instead of raising calves. It seems that there are always changes in our work and in the seasons.

Mifflin County 4-H Salutes Leaders

GRANVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — It's something worth losing sleep over. That's why Steve Dupert of McClure gladly accepted the Friend of 4-H Award at the Mifflin County 4-H Leader Recognition Banquet held recently at the Granville United Methodist Church.

Dupert serves as night chaperone in the beef barn during fair week.

"My son wanted to stay with his steer, so I started sleeping out at the Youth Park during fair week," says Dupert who has chaperoned for six years. The award is presented each year to someone who helps 4-H in some way but who is not a member or leader.

"You get used to the noise after the first night. I just go to bed late and get up early. I get about three or four hours of sleep. The worst night was when a pig got his head stuck in a fence. Now that woke me up!" Duper laughs.

Dupert, who works at Bevertown Block, takes his vacation during fair week and admires how the 4-H programs teach responsibility. "I can tell a difference in the kids," he said.

After dinner, Samantha Speicher and Lisa Macknair presented slides on the group's trip to Yuma, Arizona.

Danny Aitkins and Lisa Macknair then presented the Pin Awards to leaders for years of service. Those leaders receiving recognition include the following:

1st year Bronze Clover — Robert Bowerson and Garry Rearick; 5-year Silver Clover — Greg Baumgardner; 10-year Gold Clover — Delores Kingston, Irene Kratzer, and Kenneth Reed; 20-year Diamond Clover — Debbie Filson and Hazel Reed; 30-year Ruby Clover — Helen Kirk and Helen Seaholtz.

Leaders receiving certificates include June Aitkins, Nina Angney, Frank Bonson, Jake Fisher, Paula Fisher, Erin Goss, Marg Hackenburg, Nelson Kratzer, Helen Krick, Alan Laughlin, Brad Leister, Joann Lindsey, Howard Lindsey, Rose Massie, Christine Orwig, Beth Rearick, Dolores Seitz, Sam Setzler, Pam Setzler, Christopher Setzler, Beth Ann Shade, Elsie Shaffer, Ron Soccio, Judy Speicher, and Barry Wilcher.

The 4-H Junior Leader Club advisor is Alan Laughlin for McClure.

How To Solve Auto Complaints

RUTGERS, N.J. – Do you know that complaint handling programs exist for resolving automobile problems

If you are having difficulty in resolving auto complaints such as repeated repair attempts (brakes, paint, transmission, etc.) or elusive diagnostic-problems (leaks, noises, etc.), you can appeal to a dispute settlement board (DSB).

A DSB is an informal dispute settlement mechanism whose members are charged with resolving complaints based primarily on the standard of fairness. These boards offer prompt and objective resolution to consumer complaints that are beneficial to consumers, dealers, and auto companies. Composed of independent volunteers, the boards provide customers an opportunity to have their complaints heard and decided by an independent authority at no cost. Decisions are binding on auto companies but consumers are free to reject decisions and seek other remedies available under state or federal law. To be eligible for review, the vehicle must be covered under an express new vehicle warranty.

Before applying to a DSB, a wise consumer should address a concern or complaint with a local dealership and the automobile company. Local dealerships are independently owned and operate their own service centers. Therefore, quality of service repairs vary between dealerships. Under the New Jersey Lemon Law, a dealer must provide to a consumer an itemized and legible statement of all examinations and repairs at each visit.

If a consumer is dissatisfied with repairs or elusive diagnostic attempts, a dealership can provide the telephone number and address to contact the regional customer service office of the auto company. Because companies have a vested interest in customer satisfaction, regional office managers are eager to resolve complaints or disputes. These offices might inspect a vehicle to aid in dealer diagnosis and suggest resolutions. Also, when regular repair procedures are not successful, a field service engineer, a highly trained technical expert, can be called on to inspect a vehicle on a limited basis.

To file a complaint with the DSB, the customer can call a dealership for an 800 number, select a dispute settlement pamphlet from the dealer or refer to his/her Owners Guide or Warranty Information Booklet. After obtaining and completing a short application form with pertinent information, the customer mails it to an address of an independent consulting firm that oversees board actions. DSBs meet on a regular basis to review cases. Trained board members review all materials related to the complaint and, based on available information, arrive at fair and impartial decisions. Consumers have the option of appearing before the boards to present their cases. Decisions are mailed directly to consumers after review.

Generally, boards may award one of the following: a replacement vehicle, refund of the purchase price, repair, reimbursement for incidental expense, combination of the above, or nothing.

Efforts are made to render a decision within a reasonable time (approximately 30-40 days from receipt of complaint).

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — Eleanor Stewart, 360 Summit Rd., Bellefonte, PA 16823, would like to find a green book with the name Stuart on the front. The book is about the Stuart descendents of the Canesteo Valley about 1850-1900.

QUESTION — Robert Dannenfelter, Bridgeville, would like about six to eight old-wire-style egg gathering baskets.

QUESTION — Joann Robbins, 1705 York Rd., Hartsville, PA 18974, wants to pruchase Judy Bolton and Dana Girls Mystery books.

QUESTION — Abe Gingerich, Free Union, Vir., would like the words to the poem "When Men Are Sick." The humorous poem pokes fun at men because of their tendency "to be really sick" when they aren't feeling well.

QUESTION — Pam Eyer, Carlisle, would like to buy a game Balderdash, which has been used but in good condition.

QUESTION — Pam Eyer, Carlisle, would like a source to buy stationery items such as notecards, mailing address labels, and Christmas cards with pictures of Jack Russell Terriers on them.

QUESTION — Clyde Clark, Milan, writes that when he was at a yard sale recently, he purchased a Kismet game. The game is in good condition, but he needs scone cards for the game. He wrote to the company, but the letter was returned with no forwarding address. He would appreciate any help readers could give him.

QUESTION — Joseph Smith, Egg Harbor Twp., N.J., requests information on how to raise a successful hay crop to save the family farm. Because his farm is under 200 acres, he thinks a county extension agent will not help him and he can't afford a professional adviser. However, it's our understanding that extension agents help everyone, regardless of the acreage. Call Marvin Hall, Penn State hay specialist, at (814) 863-1019. Anyone have any other ideas?

QUESTION — Betty Chaffee, Warren, writes that a Pennsylvania Dutch style afghan was featured in the Spring '72 issue of McCall's Needlework magazine. She had ordered Leaflet #DUTCH 791-NB, which had directions to crochet the afghan. While moving, she lost the leaflet. She contacted McCall's but they cannot help her. She hopes one of our readers can send the instructions to her at 1410 PA Ave. East, Warren, PA 16365.

QUESTION — Terry Shane wants to do what to do to get the mothball smell out of a blanket chest.

QUESTION — H.W. Stewart, 150 Shiloh Rd., State College, PA 16801, would like to know where to obtain an old catalog from the Mifflinburg Body Works. He is willing to pay a good price.

QUESTION — A reader wants to know where she can find extra cups to match a fine china set with a rose design pattern called Royal Swirl, which was made in Japan.

QUESTION — Darrell Martin, Lititz, is looking to an experienced trainer to train or help him tain a Border collie.

QUESTION — Linda Christman, Greencastle, is looking for books by John Pfluegar on Franklin County Peters Twp.

QUESTION — Ruth Zimmerman, Bethel, is trying to locate someone to make burrs for a hand cranked mill used to crack corn. It is a cast iron Model #750 made by Enterprise Mfg. Co., Philadelphia. Anyone have an idea on how old it is? The burrs for cracking corn measure approximately 5½ - or 5¾ -inch in diameter.

QUESTION — Doris Hellerick, Dublin, is interested in purchasing a life-sized plywood black and white cow for lawn display.

QUESTION — A reader from Leola area would like to know where to get flails for an Agri-Tech model #GS20120 finish mower, new or used.

QUESTION — Mike from Pottsville wants the name of a company that sells egg cartons and will print the farm logo on the cartons.

QUESTION — A reader would like to locate a John Deere 435 corn head for a J.D. 105 Combine or a J.D. 105 Combine with 435 cow head. Head must be in good condition.

QUESTION — Susan Forry, 25 Woodward Court, Annapolis, MD 21403, is searching for information on how old a two-story house located on Burma Road in Columbia (West Hempfield Township is. A barn and tobacco shed once stood on the 80-acre property that is approximately 3/10 mile off the road.

Prior to its present owner (Daniel Forry) it was owned by the following people: Robert Garber, Elmer Garber, Paris H. Garber, Aaron Herr, Rudolph Herr. It was possibly owned by Henry S. Eshleman (1851), Henry Neff (1853) Henry Hogendobber (1856), Abraham Metzyer, Andrew Bowers (both 1856), Jacob Reitzell (1823), and or John Reitzell.

QUESTION — A New Tripoli reader would like to purchase barley straw to control algae in the pond. She wants to purchase the straw in the New Tripoli area.

QUESTION — Shirley Runk, Mount Union, would like to know where to purchase plastic lids with a spout that are used on one-gallon Sun-tea jars.

QUESTION — Leon Stoltzfus, Leola, would like to know where to purchase the round juicing disk for an Atlas Juicer made by Juice Master Mfg., Co., Model 36. No. D12041.

ANSWER — Francis Klingler, Gettysburg, is building a new home and would like to use sawdust for insulation like the old timers did. He wanted to know the pros and cons? Thanks to Richard Seidof, Sciota, for writing that many years ago, his dad put sawdust and shavings for insulation between a double floor in the kitchen. It was good for 25 years, but several years ago termites got into it. They sprayed several times. They had used pine sawdust and shavings because of the odor. Last year, Richard's son had to dispose of the sawdust insulation. Perhaps cedar shavings would work better, but Richard does not recommend using sawdust insulation because of the problems it created.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know where to buy wicking to use to make candles. Thanks to Greg Maynard, a beekeeper who wrote that he and most beekeepers make candles from bees wax. He recommends ordering supplies from a beekeeper or from a mail order supplier: Bob Brooks of Perkiomen Valley Appairies. Call (610) 754-7631. Or Mann Lake LTD 1-800-233-6663.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know how to eliminate a musty smell from his basement. For years he had no heat in the basement, but now he has put in gas heat and would like to put in a bedroom, but first, must get rid of the musty smell. Thanks to a reader who writes that it works to put charcoal in a flat 2x1-foot box and sprinkle with one pint epsom salt.

ANSWER — Durwood Tuttle, Knoxville, wanted to know how people hand dug wells so deep and perfectly round and laid stone without it caving in. Thanks to Gerald McCombs, York, who recommends FoxFire Book No. 4, printed in 1977 by Anchor Press, Double Day. Hand-dug well building is detailed on pages 367-381.

ANSWER — In answer to Charles Hoffman's request for wooden forks made from hickory wood, Anna Oberholtzer, Leola, writes that the forks are manufactured by Bareville Woodcraft Co., 70 Farmland Rd., Leola, PA 17540.

M. Bishop of Roaring Branch recommends the book, "The Woodwright's Shop," (companion to the PBS TV show) from University of North Carolina Press, Chapel Hill, ISBN 0-8078-4082-3. The book explains the process of starting with 8-inch-diameter ash, hickory or white oak. The cutting and steaming process are explained in detail.

ANSWER — In answer to Florence Myers' request for a first grade reader book, Mrs. Reuben Martin, Myerstown, writes that she has one in good condition to sell. Call her at (717) 949-3706.

ANSWER — Toni LeVan, Galeton, wanted to know the procedure and ingredients needed for making soap. Thanks to a faithful reader who writes that the directions are printed on the can of the Red Devil lye available in most supermarkets.

ANSWER — Valerie Miller, Honesdale, wanted to know why her homemade soap separates when she stirs the lye water into the melted fat. Thanks to a faithful reader who writes that rain water or soft water should be used. Salt caused the soap to separated so be sure the fat is clean. Pour lye mixture very slowly (in a thin stream) into the liquid fat, stirring slowly and constantly to mix evenly throughout. Rapid pouring and rapid stirring causes the mixture to separate.

ANSWER — Paul Ward (717) 293-5032 has the books Elam Ebersole and E. Nolt had requested.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know who appliqued the Lancaster Rose quilt tops that were sold at the Diffenback quilt and craft sale in New Holland a few years ago. ### Industry Leading Turning Radius

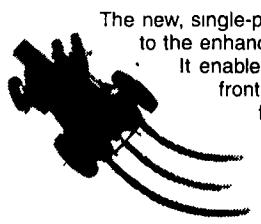
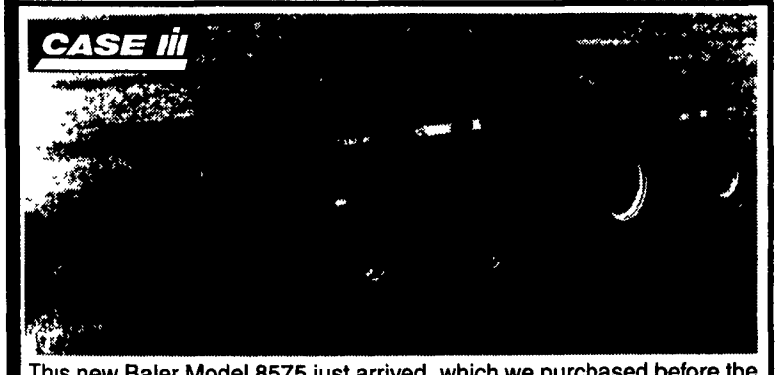
The revolutionary chassis of the MX Series Magnum improves your overall performance and productivity In fact, the innovative Surround frame allows for the tightest turning radius in the industry, even with front duals!

Thanks to axle improvements, engine placement and a sleek hood design, the MX Series Magnum can easily turn into 12 30-inch rows with all row crop tire configurations on true 60-inch tread settings



The new, single-piece, sculpted, cast iron Surround frame is the key to the enhanced capabilities and performance of these tractors It enables the MX Series Magnum to offer the first factory front duals, dramatically improving both traction and flotation By balancing the chassis, we've significantly reduced the amount of front ballast required And the frame easily accomodates mounted chemical tanks or loaders, allowing you to perform multiple applications



This new Baler Model 8575 just arrived, which we purchased before the price increase and we will pass the savings on to you! 1000 lb. dry bale weight, capable for high moisture baling, 31.5"x34.4" chamber with adjustable bale length up to 98", automatic density control, center lube system, roller bale chute. Buy Quality - Buy Case IH! ### New Case IH 8545 100 Stroke Per Min. CENTER-LINE DESIGN

Saves More Leaves Which Means More Milk In The Tank

The benefits of the Case International center-line rectangular baler for a smaller operation are many Narrow transport width Easy in-field maneuverability Gentle handling of hay Uniform bale shape And, a budget-minded price

You'll appreciate it with the first bale you make A wide, low-profile pickup and center-line feeding mean more leaves end up in the bale, not on the ground

And, if that's not enough, there are a number of options available A hydraulic pickup lift, flotation tires, hydraulic density control, wagon hitch and a choice of bale chutes or hydraulic bale thrower with electric controls

Stop in and find out more about the Case International rectangular baler

UM Wins Northeast Soil Judging Event

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — University of Maryland (UM) teams placed first, third, and seventh among 14 teams from nine colleges and universities participating in the annual Northeast regional collegiate soil judging contest.

This year's event was held Oct. 31 at the Smithsonian Environmental Research Center, south of Annapolis near the Rhode River, a tributary of Maryland's famed Chesapeake Bay.

UM is eligible to compete in the 39th annual National Collegiate Soil Judging Contest on March 26, near Tucson, Ariz. Joining Maryland in the national contest will be teams from Cornell and Ohio State, the second- and third-place schools, respectively, in the regional contest.

Patrick Hamel of Waterbury, Conn., a student at the University of Rhode Island, placed first among 60 individuals in the Northeast region contest.

University of Maryland students placed second, sixth, and ninth in the individual rankings. They were, in order, Benjamin F. Williams of Berwin Heights (Prince George's County), a natural resources management senior; Sanjai J. Parikh of Plattsburgh, N.Y., an agronomy-conservation senior; and Sagit Zaharya of Israel, a sophomore in environmental science and policy.

Three Cornell students also finished in the top 10. They were Karen Wynne of Ithaca, N.Y., fourth; Joe Bullock of Canton, N.Y., fifth; and Jennifer Fiskin of Southern Pines, N.C., tenth.

Melissa Wright of Baltimore, Ohio, was the third-place individual, and Daniell Balduff of Willard, Ohio, was eighth. Both are students at Ohio State.

Rounding out the top 10 was Michael Callahan of Greensburg, Pa., a student at Penn State. He finished in seventh place.

This year's Northeast regional soil judging contest pits involved somewhat poorly drained soils — all in greensands situated on Ivy Neck along the Rhode River. Two of the soils had about three feet of wind – deposited loess with buried soils in the greensands underneath, and one was an oystershell kitchen midden soil at an old American Indian campsite. All were acid Ultisols, except for an Alfisol on the Indian site that had a high pH because of the heavy concentration of oyster shells.

Cooperation Urged

AMES, Iowa — As America's farmers and ranchers continue to struggle with low commodity prices and the fallout from Canadian ag imports, National Farmers Organization is speaking out in favor of independent producers on both sides of the border

"Many producers from northern border states plan to voice their frustration about low farm prices . . They think Canadian Grain and livestock imports are unfair to U.S. producers," said National Farmers President Gene Paul. "But we believe farmers from both countries should stop pointing fingers at each other, and concentrate on improving the marketing system structure"

National Farmers supports working with ag producer groups in Canada and elsewhere to develop profitable commodity prices for all producers Organization members believe that trade agreements must adequately address country of origin labeling, exchange rate differences and antitrust laws

"Our global economy certainly reflects the fact that independent producers in both countries often market to the same multinational companies that control many segments of the food industry. This worldwide monopolistic environment creates an unbalanced marketplace for all North American farmers, which must be solved," said Paul. He continued by saying that North American producers should work together to find solutions that would benefit both producers and consumers.

To illustrate the severity of marketplace prices, recent farm-to-retail price difference studies indicate returns livestock producers receive for their products have fallen to 1970 levels. Today, a pork producer in one of America's leading hog producing states will receive just $45 for a 245-pound animal, while retailers will receive approximately $330.

Paul underscored that he will officially request this country's trade agreements. "Balance must be restored to the global agricultural marketplace so that farmers can continue to supply wholesome food to people of the world."

Mid-Atlantic Fruit, Vegetable Convention Promises Excitement

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — A new name, a larger facility, more exhibitors, and the broadest educational program for fruit and vegetable growers in the Northeast will make the 1999 Mid-Atlantic Fruit and Vegetable Convention an event fruit and vegetable growers won't want to miss.

More than 1,500 persons, mostly fruit and vegetable growers from throughout Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, and other states, are expected to gather at the newly expanded and remodeled Hershey Lodge and Convention Center for the convention Jan. 26-28.

The event is jointly sponsored by the State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, the Maryland State Horticultural Society, and the New Jersey Horticulture Society.

While the four groups have been meeting together at Hershey for more than 20 years, the fruit portion of the program was known as the Annual Meeting of the State Horticultural Association while the vegetable portion was termed the Pennsylvania Vegetable Conference. To simplify things and to recognize the regional nature of the meeting, the joint convention committee decided to adopt a common name for the whole event.

The name change coincides with the opening of a new exhibition hall – the Great American Hall – at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center. This new facility will allow all the exhibitors in the trade show to be located in one room instead of in two separate rooms on different levels as they were previously. It will also allow 150 or more companies to exhibit compared to the 124 companies represented at the show last year.

Space previously used for the trade show will now be available for educational sessions. For all but the last afternoon of the convention at least five, sometimes six, concurrent sessions will be available for growers to attend.

On the first day of the convention, full-day session on tree fruit, processing vegetables and marketing topics will be scheduled. In addition, the following half-day sessions are planned: basics of vegetable production, greenhouse vegetables, potatoes, and season - extension technology. On the second day, full-day sessions each on tree fruit and labor/legal topics plus half-day sessions on sweet corn production, sweet corn insects, peppers and tomatoes, cole crops, bedding plants, perennials, sustainable production and small fruit will be offered. This last day will feature a full-day each of tree fruit, vine crops and small fruit topics plus half-day sessions on leafy green vegetables, sweet corn insects, cut flowers, and herbs.

A special hands-on computer workshop will conducted throughout the first days of the conventions. Growers will be able to see first-hand demonstrations of agricultural software programs and the use of the Internet.

More than 40 pesticide update training credits are available to growers attending the sessions. The program covers nearly every aspect of fruit, vegetable, and berry production. Commercial growers should not pass up this educational opportunity.

The processing tomato growers with the highest yields for the 1998 season will be honored at the annual Tomato Awards Luncheon on the opening day, Jan. 26. That evening, Pennsylvania fruit and vegetable growers will be treated to a reception hosted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Food Merchants Association. The annual Fruit and Vegetable Growers Banquet will follow with recognitions and musical entertainment.

For more information on the fruit program and registration, contact Maureen Irvin, State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania, (717) 677-4184; Robert Black, Maryland State Horticultural Society, (301) 271-7491; or Bill Teitjen, New Jersey State Horticultural Society, (908) 475-3596.

For more information on the vegetable program and registration, contact William Troxell, Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, (717) 694-3596.

Soil Judging Event

Riverdale, a professor of soil science at the University of Maryland, chaired the planning committee for this year's Northeast regional collegiate soil judging event. Fanning was assisted by Steven N. Burch of Lanham, a graduate student and former UM soil judging team member.

Several Maryland professional soil scientists for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) also provided contest assistance. Most of them also were former UM soil judging team members.

Carl Robinette of Flintstone, an NRCS soil scientist in Allegany County, was chief judge for the contest. Susan Davis and David Verdone also were official judges. Both are based at Annapolis as NRCS soil scientists in Anne Arundel County.

Coaching this year's Maryland team is Martin C. Rabenhorst of University Park, professor of soils. His assistant is John S. Wah of Furlong, Pa., a UM graduate student. Rabenhorst himself was a UM soil judging team member during his undergraduate years. And he was the team coach when Maryland won its last national collegiate soil judging contest in 1984.

High Productivity With Drills

ATLANTA, Ga. — Tye-mounted drills offer rugged engineering and high capacity to get the crop in without time loss in the field or the shop.

The Tye 2010, 2015, 2020, 2027 and 2030 mounted drills are designed to handle the toughest field conditions, with conservation options to assure accurate seed placement in conventional and minimum tilled fields.

New high capacity 2.8 bushel per feet grain boxes (2.0 bushel per foot on 27 feet to 30 feet, and 14-inch wide fill openings mean less time lost refilling. Heavier 40 pounds per inch pressure springs with single point turnbuckle adjusters provide uniform down pressure for optimum depth control.

"We know our farmers expect a higher level of excellence from Tye and this new family of mounted drills delivers," said Andy Anderson, Tye marketing manager. "From the frames and drives to the rugged double disc row units, we have designed these drills to withstand long hours in the field."

Mounted Tye drills require only 5 to 7 horsepower per foot of width and come in 10-, 15-, 20-, 27-, and 30-foot widths. The 7- x 7-inch tubular frames are the strongest in the industry, only surpassed by the Tye 8- x 8-inch frames on larger models. Heavy duty double sealed disc bearings add to the trouble free operation.

While these drills are tough and ruggedly built, they are gentle when it comes to handling the seed. Nine-fluted seeders provide proven accurate seed metering, regardless of seed type or size, and infinite seed rate adjustment. The narrow (11-degree angle) disc openers place the seed carefully in the seed track. Uniform down pressure on the E-Z Adjust press-wheel from independently mounted springs ensures positive soil seed contact.

NFU President Calls For Moratorium On Pending Farm Sector Mergers

BISMARCK, N.D. — National Farmers Union (NFU) President Leland Swenson, in a speech here recently to the North Dakota Farmers Union, called on President Bill Clinton to place a moratorium on all proposed mergers in the agriculture sector until completion of a net farm income impact study.

Swenson made the announcement while addressing roughly 800 producers at the state's annual convention.

"Today I am calling on the president to issue an executive order to place a moratorium on approval of all pending and proposed mergers and acquisitions of agricultural interests of significant size until a net farm income study is completed and publicly reviewed," Swenson announced.

The request comes in the wake of news of a proposed merger between grain giants Cargill, Inc, and Continental Grain Co.

"Mergers, acquisitions, and alliances are squelching competition in the marketplace," said Swenson. "It is an epidemic sweeping the entire industry, including the seed, chemical, transportation, livestock, and grain sectors. The mother of all mergers—Cargill's purchase of Continental Grain—has far-reaching implications for the future direction of crop production and independent family farming."

"We are extremely pleased and very supportive of the moratorium and the need to thoroughly analyze the impact of consolidation before moving forward," said North Dakota Farmers Union President the impact of consolidation before moving forward," said North Dakota Farmers Union President Robert Carlson. "If we find out after the fact that the Cargill-Continental merger is devastating for producers it will be too late. This consolidation raises very troubling questions for our state's producers, who are already facing devastating income losses. It is unlikely many could withstand any further erosion of prices."

When making the announcement, Swenson added that there is precedence in the federal statute for NFU's request. "Environmental impact studies are required on major construction proposals, and the federal government is required to study the economic impact of any federal regulation exceeding $50 million," Swenson said.

Prices paid producers this year for wheat, corn, soybeans, and most other grain have plummeted to all-time lows when adjusted for inflation. Pork prices have fallen 65 percent since 1997, and cattle prices remain low.

Nutrient Plan Seminars Set

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — In May of 1993, the Pennsylvania legislature passed Act 6, the Nutrient Management Act. This act specifies that all poultry and livestock farms with two or more animal units per acre of farmland which receives manure, prepare and implement an approved nutrient management plan that addresses environmental issues that can result from the mishandling or misapplication of manures.

In addition to these required animal operations, the Act also encourages other agricultural operations to voluntarily prepare, submit for approval and implement nutrient management plans that meet the specifications of Act 6 for his or her livestock or poultry operation. Plans written under the requirements of Act 6 must be developed by a certified plan writer, either commercial or private.

Farmers across Pennsylvania will now have an opportunity to become trained and certified to develop their own nutrient management program through a program sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension, the local county conservation district, and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Seminars will be offered at nine locations during January, February, and March.

Local sites in the upper Susquehanna Valley where the seminars are being offered are at the Lysock Center in Williamsport, Jan. 14 and 21 from 9 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. and Jan. 28 from 9 a.m. - noon; Columbia County Ag and Human Services Center, Bloomsburg, Jan. 28 and Feb. 4 from 9 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. and Feb. 11 from 9 a.m. - noon.

This series of workshops will provide livestock and poultry producers with the necessary information to become individually certified to develop a nutrient management plan. In addition the workshop will include instruction on using a Plan Writing Workbook to assist plan development.

This series of classes will include two days of classroom instruction, from 9 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. and a half day, 9 a.m. - noon to take the required private plan writer exam.

Preregistration is appreciated to assist planning. There is no registration fee. Individuals will be given an hour break but will be expected to provide their own lunch or eat locally.

Topics to be covered include soil sampling, nitrogen cycles, phosphorus issues, manure management, overview of Act 6 Requirements, barnyard and field best management practices, cost sharing opportunities, and liability issues.

Seminars will be conducted throughout the state in 1999. For additional information on these seminars and to register, contact Penn State Cooperative Extension Union County office at (570) 524-8721, 103 South Second Street, Lewisburg, PA 17837-1996 or your local conservation district office.

Del Val Appoints New Member To Board

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.) — Thomas M. Trycieki of Mechanicsville has been appointed to the Delaware Valley College board of trustees, according to College President Dr. Thomas C. Leamer.

Trycieki owns and operates, with his father, a 600-acre grain farm. He is president of the Bucks County Farm Bureau, chair of the Bucks County Farm Bureau membership committee, chair of the Bucks County Farm Bureau Governmental Relations Committee, and a member of the Buckingham Agricultural Preservation Committee.

Located in Doylestown, Delaware Valley College is a comprehensive four-year institution of higher learning with more than 1,400 men and women enrolled full-time in more than 35 academic programs, ranging from agricultural, biological and physical sciences to business administration, computer information systems, and secondary education. In addition, 700 students are enrolled on a part-time basis in Del Val's Evening and Weekend Colleges, working to advance their careers.

Ice Cream Short Course

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Like the legendary Phoenix of Egyptian mythology, the once-famous ice cream short course at the University of Maryland is scheduled to rise from the ashes next March after a nine-year lapse.

Scott A. Rankin, Maryland Cooperative Extension dairy processing specialist since 1996, reports that the 41st short course is scheduled March 23-26 in the university's new state-of-the-art dairiy processing plant on the College Park campus.

Rankin noted that the short course had previously been offered annually for 40 years (1950-1990) in the university's old Turner Laboratory, now remodeled into a Visitor Center and Dairy Sales Room.

The "new look" short course will be a hands-on applied program of frozen dessert manufacturing practices for batch operators. Short course instructors will represent a wide spectrum of commercial frozen dessert products.

Registration for the 1999 short course will be limited to the first 40 paid applicants. The $800 course fee will include tuition, parking, course materials, break refreshments, a group photo, final night dinner banquet, and a participation certificate. The registration deadline is March 9 — late registration will be dependent on space available.

For registration information and a copy of the program, contact Dr. Scott A. Rankin, Department of Animal & Avian Sciences, University of Maryland, College Park, MD 20742-2311, (301) 405-4568.

Seneca Lake Wine Trail Announces Additional $5,000 In Support For Wine, Brew Lab

GENEVA, N.Y. — Funding for the Cornell Vinification and Brewing Technology Laboratory (CV & BTL) under construction at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, N.Y. received a $5,000 boost from the Seneca Lake Wine Trail Association on Oct. 30. The money brought the contributions and services donated by industry in 1997-1998 to more than $60,000. Two other recent contributions include $1,000 from Lamoreaux Landing Wine, and $618.56 from the Finger Lakes Wine Growers Association.

"This is exactly the kind of support from the private sector we need as leverage for state support for the Geneva Plan," said Station Director Jim Hunter, who attended the check passing ceremony. "Very often, we are asked what industry is doing to help support the Experiment Station. This project is a win-win partnership between the station, industry, New York State, and Cornell. Together, we will not only get the facility built, but conduct the level of programs that wineries and breweries in New York need to build market share." The state contributed $150,000 toward the construction of the facility in 1998.

"Everybody on the Seneca Lake wine trail understands the benefits of having technical expertise in wine making and grape growing close by," said Bev Stamp of Lakewood Vineyards, president of the wine trail association. "Ours is a growing industry." She cited a 10 to 20 percent increase in tourism activity at the wineries in 1998 and reported that 21 members of the Seneca Lake Wine Trail distribute 400,000 brochures a year—as many as Watkins Glen International. "It is a staggering reflection of the amount of interest and activity generated by the wine industry in our area," she said.

The funds were the profits from a Chocolate and Wine benefit held in February 1998. It is the second such donation to come from the Seneca Lake Wine Trail. In July 1997, the wine trail donated $5,000 to launch construction of the CV&BTL.

Scientists at Cornell and industry personnel will use the new CV&BTL to develop uniquely New York wines, beers, meads, vinegars, and other fermented products. Mark McLellan, director of the lab, expects suppliers and manufacturers to use the space to place pilot scale winery and brewing equipment to run small-scale trials and offer operational and testing courses for people in the wine-making and brewing industries. It will be shared by researchers, students, wineries, breweries, suppliers, and equipment manufacturers, as well as educators, consumers, and national associations.

"We hope to do as much for the brewing industry in the next 20 years as we have done and will continue to do for the wine industry," said McLellan.

In the last 20 years, New York has emerged as the number 2 wine producing region in the country, behind California, which is number 1. There are 125 wineries in the state — 110 of them have been established since 1976, when the NYS legislature passed the Farm Winery law. In upstate New York, there are three large breweries with national reputations— Anheuser-Busch in Baldwinsville, F.X. Matt in Utica, and Genesee in Rochester— and 35 to 40 microbreweries, which are the growth segment of the industry.

Grassland FFA Attends National Convention

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Chuck Beam, Debby Becker, Becki Day, Tanya Weaver, Katie Kehr, Theresa Martin, Travis Frank, advisers Clifford Day, his wife Anna, and Robert Lauffer and his wife Jackie from the Grassland FFA embarked on a one-week journey to the 71st National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

They flew from the Baltimore/Washington International Airport to St. Louis, Mo. On Tuesday, they toured the St. Louis Arch and saw a show in Branson, Mo.

Wednesday morning found the group shopping at the Bass Pro Shop in Springfield, Mo. Later in the afternoon, they arrived in Kansas, City and registered at the convention center.

They then drove about 40 minutes into Kansas, where they met Keith and Patty Young, who extended hospitality by letting the chapter members stay at their house for three nights while the group attended the convention.

There were 48,000-plus FFA members, advisers, and guests registered. While at the convention the chapter heard two speakers — Gerda Klein, a holocaust survivor, and Warren Faidley, a storm chaser from Phoenix, Ariz.

The Grassland FFA also received a one star National Chapter Rating award and Lauffer was awarded his Honorary American FFA Degree, the highest award presented to adults. The group also spent several hours visiting the career show, where hundreds of agribusinesses and colleges had displays and resource people to answer questions.

The convention is a motivating and inspiring event. Our group enjoyed the sessions we attended.

This was the last year that the convention was to be in Kansas City, making it a bittersweet atmosphere. The 1999 convention is scheduled for Louisville, Ky. The group flew home on Sunday, Nov. 15.

Novartis Seeds, Land O' Lakes Announce Joint Venture

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Novartis Seeds, Inc. Field Crops and Land O' Lakes, Inc., have formed a joint venture to focus on specialty corn hybrids for the food and feed markets. Financial terms were not disclosed.

"This agreement marks Novartis Seeds' first major entry into specialty grains for the food and feed arena," said Edward T. Shonsey, president of Novartis Seeds, Inc.

Under the agreement, Novartis will purchase a 50-percent interest in Wilson Seeds, Inc., an independently operated company owned by Land O' Lakes. Wilson Seeds recently purchased Zimmerman Hybrids, of Evansville, Inc., a leading developer of white corn hybrids, which is also included in the new joint venture. Wilson Seeds will continue to operate from its Harlan, Iowa, location

In addition, the white corn genetics of Sturdy Grow Hybrids, a white corn breeding company in Arcola, Ill., will also be licensed to the joint venture through Novartis Seeds. Novartis Seeds and Sturdy Grow struck an agreement in March 1998 resulting in the introduction of a white corn hybrid with the Bt trait, NK® brand N71-T7.

"Each company involved in this venture will contribute value towards the end result," Shonsey said. "The product line will combine genetic traits for specialty crops with unique properties that can only be gained through biotechnology."

Wilson Seeds, formed in 1926, has focused its breeding efforts on corn hybrids for food and feed since 1984 and sells about a dozen white corn hybrids.

Jonalpa Farms Wins Quality Award

BALDWINSVILLE, NY – Jonalpa Farms were awarded the Outstanding Quality Award at the recent Syracuse Dairy Farmers Annual Meeting held at Tessone's Wine Garden in Baldwinsville, NY. Owners Paul and Arnold Johnson received the award for producing the highest quality milk in the cooperative last year. The award was presented by United Ag Services.

Bob Bowles, representing Byrne Dairy, spoke to the members about current market conditions and the good relationship the Syracuse Dairy Farmers have with Byrne Diary. James Patsos, CEO of United Ag Services, discussed market trends and price outlook.

Paul Johnson, secretary, presented the members with their patronage dividend checks. Syracuse Dairy Farmers consistently pays an annual patronage dividend.

During the business meeting, Steve Crego of Baldwinsville, and Duane Eibert of Marcellus, were re-elected president and vice-president respectively. Paul Johnson was re-elected secretary/treasurer. Syracuse Dairy Farmers would consider adding producers of quality milk.

Syracuse Dairy Farmers is affiliated with United Ag Services of 12 North Park Street, Seneca Falls, NY, 13148. United provides management, accounting, quality control, and employee and producer payroll services for small to medium sized cooperatives and agricultural businesses as well as individual farmers.

Station Honors Vegetable Virologist

GENEVA, N.Y. — The early bird catches the worm, but it's the hard-working vegetable virologist who unearths the disease.

Dr. Rosario ('Rosie') Provvidenti, Cornell University professor of plant pathology, whom many consider the world's foremost authority on vegetable diseases, continues to arrive at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva at 7 a.m. and work long hours.

Despite the fact that he retired seven years ago, he directs a very active research program, and is a requested lecturer at meetings all over the world, and is as comfortable with conventional breeding as he is with genetic engineering.

Provvidenti was recognized at a symposium and a dinner in his honor hosted by seed companies and the Geneva Experiment Station in October.

Provvidenti's vast knowledge in the identification of viruses, and his work in the genetics of resistance is recognized by scientists and seed companies in the United States and around the world," said station director Jim Hunter. "Many of his discoveries have been used to improve vegetable crops." His work helped to establish good working relationships between seed companies and the Station long before it was popular to talk about partnerships between the university and the private sector.

"Dr. Provvidenti put the Experiment Station on the map as a center of excellence for identifying genes for resistance to viruses in vegetable crops. Without him, the station—and even the College of Agriculture at Cornell—would not have the renowned program it does dealing with virus diseases of vegetables," said Hunter.

The objectives of Dr. Provvidenti's research program are the identification of viruses occurring in vegetable crops and their biological control. A major emphasis has been directed toward the search for natural sources of resistance utilizing domestic and foreign introduction of cultivated and wild species of beans, crucifers, cucurbits, lettuce, peas, peppers, spinach, tomatoes, and other crops. He has been instrumental in controlling diseases of New York State vegetables, and his work has been applied to varieties of these vegetables from all over the world.

"Dr. Provvidenti has had a distinguished career, and his contributions to the vegetable industry of New York and the United States have been tremendous," said Herb Aldwinckle, professor of plant pathology at Geneva, one of the organizers of the symposium.

"Rosie has found and characterized more sources of disease resistance than anybody. He has studied how they are inherited, and helped breeders incorporate the resistance into varieties. His work has been indispensable to me," said vegetable breeder Richard Robinson, professor of horticultural sciences at Geneva.

The utilization of resistance genes in the development of new cultivars, and close cooperation with vegetable breeders of public and private institutions continue to be the ultimate goal of his entire research program.

"Vegetable pathology is a very frustrating kind of research," said Mike Szkolnik, retired professor of plant pathology, who is a contemporary of Dr Provvidenti "There are very delicate lines between vegetable varieties and the strains of viruses that affect them. Once you think you have made a tremendous contribution, you come to the humiliating realization that somewhere in the world, the same virus decimates another strain of the same plant Rosie has traveled all over the world searching for plant genetic material, studying the viral causes of disease, and trying to improve or at least reduce the loss in productivity of important vegetable crops."

Provvidenti received his doctorate in microbiology from the University of Palermo in Italy in 1947. He came to work at the Geneva Experiment Station as a research associate in the department of plant pathology in 1954. He has the unique distinction of being promoted from a non-professorial position to a professorship in 1984. He was named a Liberty Hyde Bailey Professor in 1985. In 1986, he was named a Fellow by the National American Phytopathological Society.

Consistency, Predictability Key To Hybrid Selection

DES MOINES, Iowa – With harvest comes yield data and the task of using this information to make final hybrid selections for the 1999 crop year. Understanding how to interpret trial data is critical, so producers can make the right hybrid choices.

"The purpose of yield trials is to help predict the future performance of selected hybrids, and testing only one environment in one year is not a good predictor of the future," said Dr. Joe Lauer, corn agronomist at the University of Wisconsin.

"Every year is different," said Lauer. "The only way to predict hybrid performance is an unknown environment (i.e., next year) is to look at its performance in a number of environmental and management conditions."

According to a University of Wisconsin study, the best way for producers to increase their chances of picking a high-performance hybrid is to average its performance across many locations and management conditions. A hybrid that is at the top for a location and production zone (average of three to four locations) has an 81 percent chance of beating the trial average in the following year, according to the study.

"Performance data across multiple locations and from several years is the most accurate way to determine the hybrids that will provide the best performance under various environmental conditions," said Lauer. "Our studies show that an average hybrid is almost always going to be just average. Anything that ranks near the bottom in a fair test is below average and probably should not be considered."

Producers often perceive on-farm yield trials to be the best predictors of how a hybrid will perform in their fields, but Lauer said these on-farm tests shouldn't serve as the only consideration for hybrid selection. On-farm yield trials provide valuable information such as grain quality, standability, insect resistance and ease of combining. However, on-farm trials don't serve as good indicators of a hybrid under varying environmental conditions.

Another misconception is that large test plots with 30 to 40 hybrids are the most effective for selecting hybrids. Dr. Paul Carter, agronomy sciences manager, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. in Johnston, Iowa, said side-by-side comparisons of two hybrids actually prove to be more effective.

"With only two to four hybrids in a plot, soil variations are less likely to influence yield than when there is an extreme number of hybrids being spread across a field," Carter said. "When a few hybrids are grown side by side, they are more likely to experience the same soil conditions."

Planting date, plant population and comparative relative maturity also are important factors when comparing hybrid performance to ensure similar hybrids are being compared under similar growing conditions, said Carter. Entries should be compared with cropping history, fertility, tillage, planting practices and pest control. In addition, they should be adapted to the region in which they will be grown to afford protection against common diseases and stresses in the area.

Another important consideration is the herbicide/seed system used. Hybrid A may not be resistant to the same herbicide as Hybrid B, so spray drift from Herbicide B could stunt growth and cause yield reduction for Hybrid A. Buffer zones are crucial when comparing different herbicide/seed systems.

Rotary Cutters Face The Good, Bad, And Ugly

ATLANTA, Ga. — From attacking weedy ditchbanks at a 90-degree angle to slicing through 2-inch thick brush to grooming the grounds of a beautiful estate, the Farmhand family of rotary cutters is designed to handle the good, the bad and the ugly. And make it all look beautiful with a uniform, clean finish.

To meet the growing variety of cutting and grooming needs, Farmhand continues to expand its rotary line and to sharpen its focus on rotary performance features.

The current line runs from rugged wingfold design to straight-forward cutter/shredders to special estate groomers, while cutting widths range from 48 inches to 15 feet.

Here's a quick review of Farmhand rotary cutters, from the top down:

• RC1500 Series – wing fold. Farmhand's RC1500 wing fold cutters can adjust to fit most large cutting needs. The folding design, which flexes 90 degrees up and 22 degrees down, permits excellent trimming along ditches and banks. The cutting height of the 1500 Series can be adjusted to cut from 1 to 15 inches.

• RC1400 Series – cutters/shredders. The Farmhand RD1400 Series provides operators with a heavy-duty, non-fold cutter/shredder. These mowers have a cutting width of 14-feet, 1-inch, a cutting height range of 1 to 15 inches and can slice through 2-inch diameter brush.

• RC270 – rotary cutter. Available in four widths – 60-, 72-, 84, and 120-inches – the RC270 cutters have an adjustable cutting height range of 1-1/2 to 12-inches and are capable of cutting through brush up to 2 inches in diameter. The 1/2- by 4-inch blades on the RC270 rotate up to 15,735 feet per minute to produce a smooth, precise cut.

• RC250 – rotary cutter. For light commercial and home use, the rugged Farmhand RC250 Series cutters are available in four cutting widths – 48-, 60-, 66-, and 72-inches. All four sizes have two blades capable of cutting through brush up to 1-1/2 inches in diameter. Depending on the cutter width, the blade speed ranges from 12,885 to 15,378 feet per minute. Positive tail wheel adjustment allows the operator to cut within a 2- to 10-inch height range.

• EG220 – side discharge estate groomer. The EG220 side discharge model is available in three cutting widths – 48-, 60- and 72-inches. All models have a cutting height range of 2- to 4-1/2 inches. The 48-inch cutter uses two blades while the 60- and 72-inch cutters use three rotating blades.

• EG2200 – rear discharge estate groomer. The CG2200 rear discharge model is available in 60- and 72-inch widths. Both models have three rotating blades and a cutting height range of 1- to 5-inches. Designed for heavy-duty use with little horsepower, the EG2200 is recommended for use with 17 to 40 PTO hp tractors. A 540 RPM PTO drive is required with these cutters. For load protection, the EG2200 uses V-belt slippage.

FEATURE THE FOLLOWING ADVANTAGES:
- Blends by gently lifting fluffing and tumbling the entire load, reducing mix time, power requirement, machine wear, and dead spots
- Aggressive upper and lower auger with hardened, replaceable knives, for thorough and end to end movement
- Shear angle for both the upper and lower auger
- Simple slide tray or auger discharge available
- Oil bath drive with external grease banks
- Constant Velocity PTO with integral slip clutch
- Hay-Max Kit option for better break-up of most hay and bulk materials
- Tow, truck mounted and stationary units from 147 to 600 cubic feet

From Massey Ferguson
32 Speeds with the best features of manual and powershift design

Simple concept, simple design.

The Dynashift transmission features a smooth, 4-speed powershift matched to a rugged, 4x2, fully synchronized gearbox.

Get the ease-of-operation and productivity of four no-clutch powershifts. Each of the four powershifts gives you an ideal 17% increase in speed.

Like a synchromesh.

You get the low power loss and reliability of an 8 speed manual transmission. More of the flywheel horsepower is available for use in all other tractor functions. Up to half the power loss of most full powershift tractors.

Like a shuttle.

The synchronized independent shuttle lets you quickly reverse directions in any of the 32 gears with one quick shift. There's no need to sequence through multiple gears or navigate a complex shift pattern.

Like no other transmission.

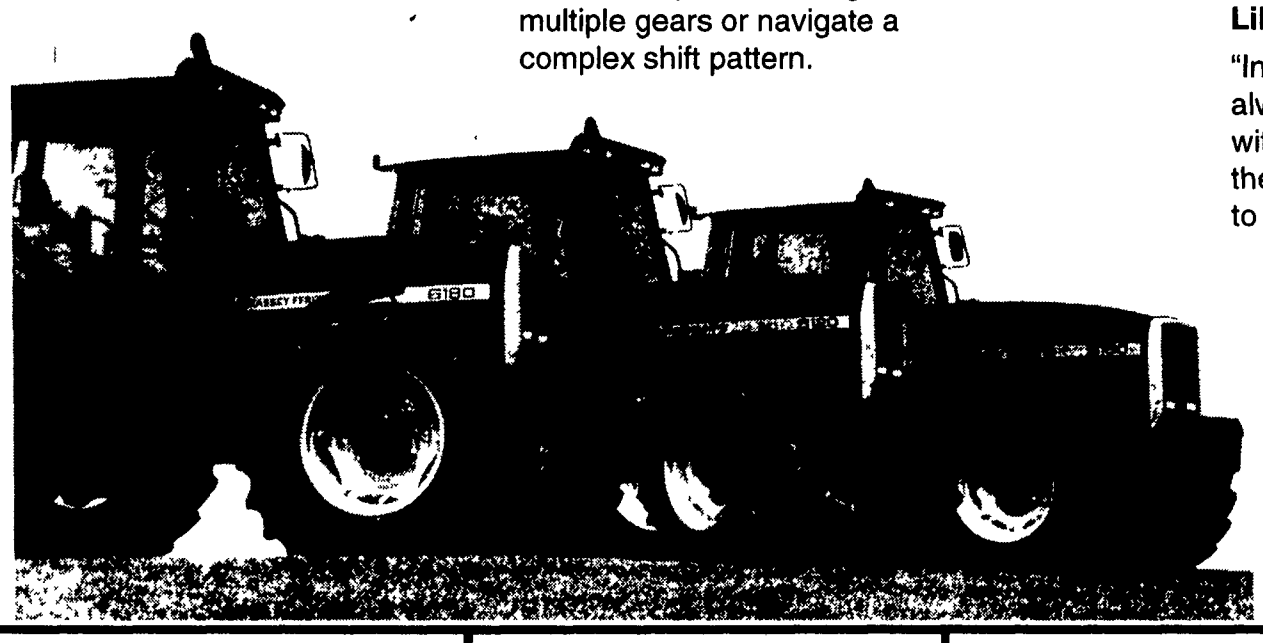
"Intelligent overlap" means you can always select a gear to shift-on-the-go with a 17% speed change. And you get the highest number of gears in the 2.5 to 7.5 mph (4 to 12 kph) working range.



MASSEY-FERGUSON

Dynashift is standard on 8100 Series tractors, optional on 6100 Series tractors.

Herbert Hoover Farney says, "I didn't think they could mix it."

Steve, Dale, and Herbert Hoover Farney
Silvery Falls Farms - Lowville, NY

Mr Farney is talking about mixing 11 5% long stem dry hay by ration weight in the Knight Reel Auggie 3450, which he and his sons decided to purchase in September of 1994.

Herbert was born the day Herbert Hoover was elected president.

The Farneys previously owned a three-auger Oswalt stationary unit They state that the "old mixer tended to ball material up, especially in wetter forages, while the Reel Auggie 3450 'fluffs' the ration "

The Farney's herd average is up about 1,000 lbs , and they have a higher protein test as well. They milk 160 Holsteins, and feed a total of 260 head. They like the low power requirement — the 390 cubic foot machine is powered by a John Deere 2030 tractor.

GEHL

PROVEN PERFORMER

Scavenger® Spreader

Gehl's Scavenger® Spreader delivers the performance you need year after year, with increased durability and outstanding application control. All thanks to the following features.

- Heavy-duty round core auger with segmented paddles to blend manure. Powered both up and down to ram through heavy loads and break up bridging.
- Special "V" tank design to handle solid, heavy bedded, semi-solid, self-leveling and liquid manure.
- Adjustable auger and expeller speeds spread more types of manure.
- Variflow™ discharge featuring square-tooth expeller paddles for smooth,e ven spreading at the rate you choose.
- Improved drive system with heavier final drive chains and enhanced idler system

TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders

"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and mositure content.

- "Hay - slicer auger" - Incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers.
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure - 8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capcities.

BUILT FOR YOUR BIGGEST JOBS

The New Holland Model 195 box spreader is up to your biggest spreading jobs.

- Capacity. The "195" takes on 410 bushels (440 cu. ft) without flinching.
- Strong construction. Corrosion-resistant steels last and last. And an HDPE floor means smooth unloading, even in cold weather.
- Bonded Protection warranty. If the polyethylene floor fails or the sides rust, you'll get new ones FREE for 12 years.
- Fast clean out... even with this big-capacity strong box.
- Large tandem oscillating wheels... allow faster ground speeds in rough terrain, with less ground compaction.

Check out our biggest New Holland spreader... from the biggest name in spreaders.

Super Boom™ is best

When you're looking for a skid-steer, there's the challengers and then there's the champ. Well say hello to the undisputed champ in the all-new Model LX885 New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader.

It has a 60-horsepower, turbocharged diesel engine for the ultimate in power. Its massive 2,200-lb. operating load picks up where all others leave off. Of course, it has the features you expect from New Holland, such as the best speed, stability, visibility, lift height and dump reach in the industry. Add that to the Pick Up 'n Go™ universal attachment system and there's nothing it can't handle.

Stop by today and see for yourself why no other skid-steer can compare.

NEW HOLLAND

Why choose a New Holland skid-steer loader?

- Superior visibility
- Greater bucket & lift capacity
- Unbeatable stability
- The most attachments
- Faster speeds
- Unmated dependability
- Superior dump height & reach

California Gold Members In Favor Of Merger

PETALUMA, Calif. — Ninety-six percent of the California Gold Dairy Products membership cast ballots recently to merge with Missouri-based Dairy Farmers of America (DFA), the country's largest milk marketer.

An overwhelming 85 percent of the members voted to approve the merger.

The merger will take effect upon completion of all necessary documentation at which time the cooperative's assets and plant operations in Petaluma, Tracy, Turlock and Hughson, Calif. will be transferred to DFA.

As a result of the merger, California Gold will become an operating region within DFA and the interests of its 330 members will be represented through the governance of an area council covering California and Northern Nevada. In addition, California Gold board members will become a part of the DFA board of directors until 2001.

"We believed that a merger with DFA was the best business option for our members. The resounding response in favor of the merger shows our member obviously agree," said Richard Sturgeon, president & CEO, California Gold Dairy Products.

"DFA was attracted to California Gold because of its fresh and wholesome milk supply that far exceeds stringent state requirements, extensive cheese production, and groundbreaking work in the arena of value-added products, all of which represent significant profit centers," said DFA President and CEO Gary Hanman. "In addition, the geographic location of California Gold makes it an appropriate match to serve both domestic and export markets, particularly Central and South America and the Pacific Rim."

DFA was formed in January 1998 from the combined strengths of four regional dairy cooperatives — the Southern Region of Associated Milk Producers Inc., Mid-America Dairymen, Milk Marketing Inc., and Western Dairyman Cooperative. As a major food company, DFA produces a wide variety of dairy products and works on a host of joint ventures that serve the fluid milk and dairy product markets. DFA products are sold in every state in the United States and some international markets.

Kansas City, Missouri-based DFA operates under the leadership of president and chief executive officer Gary Hanman who previously served for 23 years in a similar position with Mid-America Dairymen.

The California dairy industry once represented by a bevy of wholesalers, retailers and processors is being consolidated as a result of a flurry of merger activity. Sturgeon explained that changes abound in the dairy industry as processors and customers move into the role of competitors. there are literally five major companies that are controlling the dairy industry. More mergers and strategic alliances are expected as government price supports are removed.

"This new business landscape was a signal to California Gold to evaluate all options in an effort to improve the price that our members receive for their milk, further reaffirming our decision to merge with DFA," said Sturgeon.

J-Star Names New President

FORT ATKINSON, Wis. — Duane Wilder has been named corporate president and was elected to the board of directors of J-Star Industries, Inc.

As president, Wilder reports to the board of directors and has three separate business units reporting to him: J-Star Agricultural Products, Fort Atkinson; Roto-Mix, Dodge City, Kan.; and Digi-Star L.L.C., Fort Atkinson.

Besides a sound managerial background, Wilder also brings broad agribusiness experience to his new post. Prior to being recruited to J-Star, he served as president and part owner of Woodstock, Va.-based Agri-Tech, Inc., a manufacturer of fruit and vegetable sorting, processing, and packing equipment.

Previously he served as vice president and general manager of the Frain Group, a Chicago area holding company serving the packaging and processing industries. From 1980 to 1992 he was employed by Case Corporation of Racine. He held a number of progressive management assignments at Case, eventually rising to manager of North American retail operations.

Wilder began his business career working in farm construction dealerships. In 1976 he co-founded Alpena Ford Tractor, Inc. of Alpena, Mich. and served as vice president and general manager.

NEW! New Holland TND/TNS Tractors 42 to 62 PTO hp

Customer driven design

TND/TND tractors have the features customers say they need. These tractors outperform and outmaneuver all others in the three-cylinder class. Plus they're loaded with comfort and convenience usually found on much bigger tractors.

Exclusive SuperSteer™ FWD axle makes TNS tractors the most maneuverable all purpose tractors available.

8x8 or 16x16 Synhro Command™ transmissions feature synchronized gears and a synchronized, left hand mechanical shuttle. The 16x16 includes four speeds 1 mph or less

Exclusive Traction Management System (TNS tractors only) automatically engages FWD when and only when you need it.

Four wheel differential lock is electro-hydraulically engaged on TNS tractors for maximum power to ground performance.

Comfortable cab is suspended and pressurized, shielding the operator from vibration, noise and dirt. Heater and A/C, two doors, tilt/telescoping steering, front and rear washers and wipers, and a best-in-class lighting package are standard. Excellent visibility and an overall height as low as 85.1" lets you go places competitive cab tractors can't.

Boomer™ has tightest turnaround

Cut the wheel on a Boomer compact tractor and BOOM... it turns on a dime, up to 50% less than other compacts.

- With Supersteer™ enjoy greater maneuverability
- Sensitrack™ clutch senses turns and is easy on turf
- Innovative styling means high visibility and easy of operation
- Comfort-Plus™ deck applies ergonomic design for greater operator comfort

See Boomer now!

Shuttle back and forth with ease

Excellent in the field - and on the farm

New Holland 70- to 90-PTO-hp tractors feature a 16x16 Pulse Command™ transmission with push-button power shifting within each of four speed groups. Speeds are evenly spaced 18% apart, with nine speeds in the usual two- to seven-mph working range. Plenty of gear overlap makes range shifting unnecessary most of the time.

The shuttle lets you pull out from a dead stop or change direction without clutching. An optional, electro-hydraulically engaged creeper is also available

Vermeer Rolls Out New Bale Processors

PELLA, Iowa — A new line of bale processors, designed to significantly reduce feeding and bedding costs while increasing feed palatability and efficiency, were recently introduced by hay equipment specialist Vermeer Manufacturing.

The new Vermeer BP6800 and BP7800 Processors are powered by aggressive, hydraulically-powered feed rollers which rotate and loosen the bale in either direction for uniform feeding into a flail-type shredder. PTO-powered flails — made of tempered spring steel — uniformly process the hay and straw according to individual feeding or bedding preferences and help blow away mold, dust and mildew, to make feed more palatable and reduce stress on cattle. An easily adjustable feed grate controls rate of feed and length of cut. Rubber inserts, mounted on the rollers, help keep the tub sides clean and prevent buildup.

The new Vermeer BP6800 and BP7800 Bale Processors are powered by aggressive, hydraulically-powered feed rollers which rotate and lossen the bale in either direction for uniform feeding into a flail-type shredder.

The self-loading BP6800 is built to handle round bales up to six feet in diameter. The bigger BP 7800 processes bales six feet in diameter or larger. A fork-style loader, standard on both units, hydraulically lifts and transports a second bale, then loads it into the processor when the first one's done.

Both models can spread straw up to 50 feet for a thick, uniform mat of bedding. They can also feed open range in adjustable windrow sizes; or, place directly into feed bunks and along fencelines with a special feed bunk kit option. An optional grain tank, designed for top-dressing, is also planned.

Deerfield Ag & Turf Wins Signature Award

WATSONTOWN (Northumberland Co.) — Deerfield Ag & Turf Center Inc. has been honored with the John Deere Signature Award for outstanding achievement in all departments.

Each Department (sales, parts, and service) had to meet stringent criteria in areas of sales. performance, customer satisfaction, and department image. The dealership is one of a limited number in the Columbus Branch being recognized for this award.

This is the second consecutive year that this award has been presented to the staff and owners of Deerfield Ag & Turf Center Inc. Eleven years have passed since the doors were opened for business.

Starting off with eight employees and one building, everything has continued to grow in sales and personnel. The staff has more than doubled to 17 full-time employees as well as supporting customers in a 50-mile radius.

Recent changes have included doubling the service area, adding a large warehouse for storage, and a fully stocked parts truck on the road five days a week.

Food Trade Organization Names Man Of The Year

SOUDERTON (Montgomery Co.) — Thomas K. Leidy, president and CEO of Leidy's Premium Pork Products, Souderton, has been chosen the Philadelphia Trade Organization's 1998 Man of the Year.

Leidy was scheduled to receive the award at the organization's dinner dance in Atlantic City on Nov. 7.

"It was a humbling experience for me when I was notified of the award. It was a great privilege to be considered, much less receive this award from such a distinguished organization like the Philadelphia Food Trade Organization," Leidy said.

Leidy is an eighth-generation member of one of the first families to settle in Montgomery County in 1730. Through the years, a small family business that produced vegetables and meat products evolved into a present-day producer of more than 40 million pounds of pork products for customers from New York to Virginia.

Hesston Introduces Big Bale System

ATLANTA, Ga – It's hard to improve upon the efficiency and productivity offered by the Hesston Model 4755 mid-size rectangular baler - particularly because it allows producers to package both dry bales and silage bales with a single high-capacity machine. But with the introduction of a new Model 4720 bale accumulator, improvement is possible.

Designed as an integral part of Hesston's mid-size bale system, the 4720 accumulator attaches directly to the 4755 and uses the same tractor hydraulic system as the baler to collect one to five bales and drop them anywhere in the field, right from the tractor seat. As a result, the operator saves loading time and field travel, and reduces compaction by eliminating extra trips over the field with trucks and loading equipment.

"The 4720 is also designed so that it can be used as either a three-bale accumulator or as a five-bale accumulator," said Ken Johnson, Agco general marketing manager for Hesston products. "In the three-bale mode, the wings on the side cart are folded up and the screen on the cab-mounted control console is programmed to show the side carts as full when only one bale is shifted to each side. This allows the accumulator to be used in fields with narrow windrow spacing and to unload bales without placing them on an adjacent windrow."

In the five-bale mode, two bales can be placed on each side cart, while a fifth bale is placed on the center cart. In either mode, each side can be independently unloaded, or both carts can be unloaded at the same time. To unload all five (or all three, in the three-bale mode), the operator simply unloads both side carts, shifts the center bale to either side and unloads that side cart again.

"The 4720 accumulator comes standard with electrical bale unload, automatic bale shift bar control and cables to attach it to the existing baler control console for in-cab monitoring," said Johnson. Other standard features include a centralized lubrication system that allows the operator to grease 12 different points from one location and dual caster wheels with stabilizing brakes. The dual caster wheels not only allow the accumulator to make sharp turns in the field, put provide extra flotation for less soil compaction.

Farming For Future Conference Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Thinking about a holiday gift for that hard-working farmer on your list? Volunteer to do the chores and send him or her away for a weekend — to the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture's (PASA's) 8th annual Farming for the Future Conference, Feb. 12 - 13, here at the Penn Stater Hotel and Conference Center.

This year's event, with the theme "Designing Sustainable Food Systems," will feature Ann Clark, farmer, grazing specialist, and professor of crop science at the University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada and ecological design visionary William McDonough, dean of the University of Virginia School of Architecture and founder/director of the Institute for Sustainable Design, as keynote speakers. Also featured will be Greg Gunthorp, renowned pastured pork producer from La Grange, Ind. and member of the USDA National Small Farms Commission.

Clark, an "agroecologist, mother, researcher, teacher, farm consultant, modern-day philosopher and grass farmer," is dedicated to helping farmers design sustainable systems. Her own practical experience in extension, teaching and farming have provided her with an eclectic foundation from which to share knowledge and insights.

McDonough was the 1996 recipient of the first-ever Presidential Award for Sustainable Development, the nation's highest environmental award. He is a "practicing architect, visionary, and leader of ecologically intelligent design." He is someone who can illuminate the formerly dark places where sustainable agriculture and sustainable design may converge.

Gunthorp will present two conference workshops on the specifics of raising pigs profitably — "Low-Cost, High-Profit Hog Production" and "Pasture-ized Pork Production." Despite record low hog prices, Greg's enthusiasm for hog farming remains high. His cost of production on pasture is so much lower that it gives some margin of error, and a bit of a cushion in hard times. "You can make mistakes and still make money," he said.

Crop, soil, and livestock themes to be explored by other presenters include large-scale organic grain production and marketing, rotational tillage in vegetable cropping systems, weed control, biointensive mini-farming techniques, pasturing hogs and poultry, holistic animal husbandry, holistic resource management, grass-based dairying, and low-cost milk parlor construction.

The conference also features the "sustainable trade show," a showcase of the newest ag products, services, and programs promoting and supporting sustainable food and farming systems.

The conference fee of $60 for PASA members, $85 for non-members, includes continental breakfast Friday and Saturday. One-day registration is $30 for members, $50 for non-members. Take a $10 discount if registration is received by Jan. 16.

For more information about PASA or about the conference, call (814) 349-9856.

Christmas Tree Producers Invited To Public Hearing

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. invited Pennsylvania Christmas tree producers to attend a hearing on Monday, Dec. 21, to discuss the creation of a marketing and research program for Pennsylvania-grown Christmas trees. The hearing will be at 9 a.m. in Room 405 at the Agriculture Department Headquarters Building, 2301 N. Cameron St., Harrisburg.

"Pennsylvania's agricultural industry must be prepared for the 21st century, and it must think globally," Hayes said. "If approved by producers, this program will enable Pennsylvania's Christmas tree growers to meet the challenges and opportunities ahead."

Secretary Hayes, on behalf of the state's Christmas tree industry, formed a study committee to investigate the feasibility for the creation of a program to support the marketing and research of Pennsylvania Christmas trees.

A Christmas tree marketing and research program, if approved under the provisions of the Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act, will affect growers with 10 or more acres of Christmas trees who cut and sell trees during the marketing season of October through December.

DIGGING DOWN? POWER UP!

Kubota introduces the KX-Series mini-compact excavators from 22 2 HP to 42 7 HP, featuring Kubota's "Power Up" hydraulic system that increases digging performance and traveling speed

Whatever your construction needs, we have the right excavator for you The KX-41 and KX-71 come with a two speed swing system that improves operator feel in delicate digging areas, while the KX-101 and KX-151 are equipped with the "TPSS" two pattern selection system that lets the operator choose the most comfortable operating pattern

If you require an excavator that delivers superior performance and digging capabilities, work a Kubota KX Excavator and "Power Up"

| Model | HP | Digging Depth | Operating Weight |
|---|---|---|---|
| KX-41 | 22 2 | 6'9 1" 7'11 3" | 3,615 lbs |
| KX-71 | 32 2 | 8'9 1" 10"2" | 6,415 lbs |
| KX-101 | 36 6 | 10'1 3" 12"5" | 8,115 lbs |

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21ST CENTURY?

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last
Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

Sell your beans? "It just doesn't make sense"

1. Why loose the 18% high energy oil in your own beans?
2. Why let the soybean processor take the valuable lechicin?
3. Why forfeit 50% of the metabolizable energy over SBM?
4. Why pay storage, trucking and shrink?

Be sensible!
Let SCHNUPP'S custom roast your Soybeans

Receive the value of added fat in your ration - MORE MILK
Get the most By-Pass Protein available in your beans - MORE PROTEIN UPTAKE
Keep all the nutritional components originally in the soybean. - MORE FLEXIBILITY

Super Rugged ♦ Commercial Grade

FEATURE 7 (OPTIONAL)
GRILL MOUNTED REMOTE LIFT SWITCH
Allows operation of lift cylinder from front of truck to assist in plow installation
FEATURE 1
HIDE AWAY HYDRAULICS
Our hydraulic cavity tucks away our power system No belts and pulleys under the hood and no ugly box on the front of your truck A 1/4" skid plate and gasketted top cover are also standard features This system allows superior airflow to radiator and provides instant down pressure with added weight on the cutting edge
FEATURE 4
FORMED CROSS MEMBERS give an exclusive stability unseen in other plows
EXTENDED PUSH FRAME (8")
Clearly the widest push frame on the market.
ADVANTAGE superior distribution of force through the plow system and not the vehicle frame
ATTACK ANGLE
Our modern designed moldboard features an 18 contact angle for a superior glide trip in most snow conditions
FEATURE 6.
PLATE STEEL A FRAME
This laser cut frame system joins 3 main members for a raw strength unequaled by the competitor s angle iron frames
FEATURE 3.
FOUR PIN PIVOT FRAME

RETIRED CLASSIFIER JOINS SUBURBAN REALTY
Annville, Penna.

After more than 50 years in the dairy industry, I'm taking on a somewhat different responsibility. I'm going to work for Suburban Realty and I'll specialize in farm sales. As many of you already know, Suburban Realty of Annville, PA is owned and operated by broker, Nelson Ebersole and his wife, Elsie, since 1971.

I've already visited with many of you, either classifying or buying and selling your Holsteins for you. I've been doing those things for over 26 years I'll continue the cattle merchandising as in the past and now would also like to help you, in any way we can, sell your farm, if that is your desire. Our office has the capability of advertising your farm in many different professional ways. We can also help you find a farm to buy with those same professional methods If you would like, we can sell your livestock, other chattels such as machinery and/or farm at public auction Nelson has managed many, many auctions and I have helped with well over 100 auctions at one of the oldest and best cattle sales companies in America.
